GENERAL INFORMATION

HISTORICAL STATEMENT

The Union Theological Seminary in the City of New York was founded by a group of Christian ministers and laymen of the Presbyterian Church who believed that it was wise to plant a training school for ministers in a great city. They met first October 10, 1835, and, after three intermediate meetings, constituted a Board of Directors by the election of ten ministers and fourteen laymen, November 9 and 16, 1835. This Board of Directors held its first meeting January 18, 1836, when it chose its officers, appointed its committees, adopted the preamble, and proceeded to further business. January 18, 1836, is therefore regarded as the official date of the founding of the Seminary.

The Seminary was opened for instruction on Monday, December 5, 1836. The Legislature of the State of New York passed the Act of Incorporation, March 27, 1839, and this was accepted by the Board of Directors, December 20, 1839.

The founders of the Seminary were Presbyterians of the broader type represented in the New School branch of the church, and had many affiliations with New England Congregationalism. They had in view a service of wider boundaries than those of the Presbyterian Church alone. The Seminary has been from the outset independent of ecclesiastical control. The only approach to such control was that on May 16, 1870, a few months after the Reunion of the Old and New School wings of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, in the interest of harmony and of similarity of standing for all the theological seminaries of the church, this Seminary conceded to the General Assembly the right of veto on the election of professors. This concession was withdrawn October 13, 1892, since which time Union Seminary has been ecclesiastically independent, according to the plan of its founders, and the provisions of its charter.

For many years the directors and professors gave their assent to the Westminster Standards, the prescribed formula varying from time to time. Since 1905 this requirement has ceased, and a new form of declaration has been provided, which secures the Christian character of the institution in comprehensive terms. At the present time the Board of Directors and the Faculty include representatives of the Presbyterian, Congregational, Reformed, Protestant Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal, Baptist, and Anglican Churches.

The principles underlying the foundation of the Seminary were expressed in the preamble adopted at the beginning by the founders. The preamble reads as follows:

PREAMBLE

That the design of the founders of this institution may be fully known to all whom it may concern, and be sacredly regarded by the directors, professors, and students, it is judged proper to make the following preliminary statement:

1. A number of Christians, clergymen and laymen, in the cities of New York and Brooklyn, deeply impressed with the claims of the world upon the church of Christ to furnish a competent supply of well-educated and pious ministers of correct principles, to preach the Gospel to every creature; impressed also with the inadequacy of all existing means for this purpose; and believing that large cities furnish many peculiar facilities and advantages for conducting theological education; after several meetings for consultation and prayer:

RESOLVED, unanimously, in humble dependence on the grace of God, to attempt the establishment of a Theological Seminary in the City of New York.

2. This institution (while it will receive others to the advantages it may furnish) is principally designed for such young men in the cities of New York and Brooklyn as are, or may be, desirous of pursuing a course of theological study, and whose circumstances render it inconvenient for them to go from home for this purpose.

3. It is the design of the founders to furnish the means of a full and thorough education, in all the subjects taught in the best theological seminaries in the United States, and also to embrace therewith a thorough knowledge of the standards of faith and discipline of the Presbyterian Church.

4. Being fully persuaded that vital godliness well proved, a thorough education, and a wholesome practical training in works of benevolence and pastoral labors, are all essentially necessary to meet the wants and promote the best interests of the Kingdom of Christ, the founders of this Seminary design that its students, living and acting under pastoral influence, and performing the important duties of church members in the several churches to which they belong, or with which they worship, in prayer-meetings, in the instruction of Sabbath-schools and Bible-classes, and being conversant with all the social benevolent efforts in this important location, shall have the opportunity of adding to solid learning and true piety enlightened experience.

5. By the foregoing advantages, the founders hope and expect, with the blessing of God, to call forth from these two flourishing cities, and to enlist in the service of Christ and in the work of the ministry, genius, talent, enlightened piety, and missionary zeal; and to qualify many for the labors and management of the various religious institutions, seminaries of learning, and enterprises of benevolence, which characterize the present times.

6. Finally, it is the design of the founders to provide a theological seminary in the midst of the greatest and most growing community in America, around which all men of moderate views and feelings, who desire to live free from party strife, and to stand aloof from all the extremes of doctrinal speculation, practical radicalism, and ecclesiastical domination, may cordially and affectionately rally.

REQUIREMENTS OF THE CHARTER

The charter provides that "equal privileges of admission and instruction, with all the advantages of the Institution, shall be allowed to students of every denomination of Christians."

In fact, instruction is given not only in the doctrine and polity of the Presbyterian Church, but also in those of other leading protestant churches. The student body at the present time is made up of members of thirty-eight different Christian bodies. The endeavor is made to provide them all with what they need for effective service to their own communions.

PROFESSORSHIPS, INSTRUCTORSHIPS AND LECTURESHIPS

PROFESSORSHIPS

Fourteen professorships for the most part bearing the names of their several founders, or of friends designated by them, are now wholly or partially endowed. In the order of their foundation they are as follows:

The Davenport Professorship of Sacred Rhetoric and Pastoral Theology, afterward changed, by consent, to the Davenport Professorship of Hebrew and the Cognate Languages. Founded in 1853 by Mr. James Boorman.

The Roosevelt Professorship of Systematic Theology. Founded in 1855 by the will of Mr. James Roosevelt.

The Washburn Professorship of Church History. Founded in 1855 by Mrs. Harriet W. Bell.

The Baldwin Professorship of Sacred Literature. Founded in 1865 by Mr. John C. Baldwin.

The Brown Professorship of Hebrew and Cognate Languages, afterward changed, by consent, to the Brown Professorship of Sacred Rhetoric, and, still later, to the Brown Professorship of Homiletics. Founded in 1865 by Messrs. James and John A. Brown.

The Skinner and McAlpin Professorship of Pastoral Theology, Church Polity and Mission Work, afterward changed, by consent, to the Skinner and McAlpin Professorship of Practical Theology. Founded in 1873 by Messrs. David H. McAlpin, W. E. Dodge, Sr., Charles Butler, and others.

The Edward Robinson Professorship of Biblical Theology. Founded in 1890 by Charles Butler, LL.D.

The William E. Dodge, Jr. Professorship of Applied Christianity. Founded in 1904.

The Jesup Graduate Professorship of Practical Theology. Founded in 1905 by Morris K. Jesup, LL.D.

The Marcellus Hartley Professorship of the Philosophy and History of Religion, afterward changed by consent to the Marcellus Hartley Professorship of the Philosophy of Religion. Founded in 1905 by Mrs. George W. Jenkins, Mr. Marcellus Hartley Dodge, and others.

The Professorship of Christian Ethics. Founded in 1905-07 by Messrs. John Crosby Brown, C. W. McAlpin, Eugene Delano, and others.

The Charles Butler Professorship of the History of Religions. Founded in 1913 by Miss Emily Ogden Butler.

The Charles A. Briggs Graduate Professorship of Christian Institutions. Founded in 1913 by Mr. Cleveland H. Dodge.

The Morris K. Jesup Professorship of Practical Theology. Founded in 1915 by the will of Mrs. Morris K. Jesup.

The first six of these professorships had their endowments greatly increased, in 1874, by gifts from Mr. James Brown, and again, in 1892, by gifts from Messrs. John Crosby Brown, William E. Dodge, D. Willis James, and Morris K. Jesup.

The Presidency of the Faculty was endowed in 1884 by Mr. James Brown.

Other professorships and associate and assistant professorships are not yet endowed.

INSTRUCTORSHIPS

The Harkness Instructorships in Vocal Culture and Elocution, and in Sacred Music, were endowed in 1883 by "A Friend in the West Presbyterian Church," in this city, supplementing gifts made for the purpose in 1880 by Mr. Frederick Marquand and others.

Two other instructorships are partially endowed, one by bequest of the late Professor Philip Schaff, D.D., LL.D.

LECTURESHIPS

The Elias P. Ely Lectureship on "The Evidences of Christianity" was founded in 1865 by Mr. Zebulon Stiles Ely.

The Morse Lectureship on "The Relations of the Bible to the Sciences" was founded in 1865 by Professor S. F. B. Morse.

The Parker Lectureship on "The Laws of Health" was founded in 1872 by Willard Parker, M.D.

SEMINARY BUILDINGS

The first Seminary building was at No. 9 University Place, and was dedicated December 12, 1838. In later years a few subsidiary buildings were acquired in Winthrop Place (or Greene Street), the next parallel street to the east, and at the corner of Winthrop Place and Clinton Place (Eighth Street).

In 1884 the Seminary moved to its second home on Lenox Hill, where its important group of buildings, with the main entrance at 1200 (afterward 700) Park Avenue, was dedicated December 9, 1884. The generous benefactions of ex-Governor Edwin D. Morgan, supplemented by large gifts from Messrs. D. Willis James, Morris K. Jesup, and others, made this move possible.

In 1908 the work of constructing the Seminary's third home was commenced, and these new buildings were occupied in June, 1910. The dedication took place, with appropriate services, November 27-29, 1910, and was attended by a large number of delegates from other institutions, together with many alumni and friends of the Seminary. This second move received its impulse and its chief support from the princely contributions of Mr. D. Willis James, to which, after his death, Mrs. James and Mr. Arthur Curtiss James made large additions. These have been supplemented by gifts from Mr. and Mrs. John Crosby Brown, and Dr. John Meigs.

A brief description of these buildings follows.*

Their architecture is the English perpendicular Gothic. They occupy the double block bounded by Broadway, Claremont Avenue, 120th and 122d Streets, and form a large rectangle, enclosing a quadrangle approximately 300 feet long and 100 feet wide. A part of the west side, however, is for the present unoccupied by any building.

A tower at the corner of Broadway and 120th Street contains the main entrance hall, arising through three stories. Its ceiling is vaulted with fan tracery. A wide circular stairway leads to the upper floors of the library as well as to the classrooms and professors' studies and offices in the administration building. This corner tower is designed to rise ultimately to a height of over 200 feet and will then be a striking feature of the group.

The library building occupies the Broadway side from the entrance tower to the library tower opposite 121st Street. On the first floor are two rooms devoted to the Biblical, Christian and Missionary Museum and to the exhibition of rare books. Several Seminar rooms occupy the second and fourth floors. On the third floor is the reference library, 100 feet long by 40 feet wide, with an oak beamed ceiling. The rooms for library administration adjoin this. The library stack is beneath the reference library, and contains five levels which connect with various floors. The library tower rises over a vaulted driveway with ornamental iron gates, the principal entrance to the quadrangle.

The Broadway tower opens also into the administration building, which extends along 120th Street. The offices of the Seminary are on the first floor; on the second and third floors are classrooms and an auditorium; the fourth and fifth are divided into offices and studies for professors and instructors. Both the library and the administration building have access to a terrace, which rises above the main level of the quadrangle at the south, and, from within, gives these buildings, with the chapel, a fitting prominence.

The chapel stands on Claremont Avenue, across the quadrangle from the library, its lofty tower rising on the axis of the quadrangle in line with the library tower. This chapel has been erected as a memorial to the late D. Willis James, Esq., who was a director of the Seminary for many years, and its largest benefactor. The great chancel window was designed and made in England by a firm which during four generations has produced some of the best work in the typical English antique glass. During the Commencement exercises in May, 1924 a memorial window to commemorate five former students of the Seminary, who fell in the late war, was dedicated with appropriate exercises. It was designed and executed by the Montague Castle-London Company of New York.

The president's house occupies the corner of 120th Street and Claremont Avenue. Between it and the chapel is a low cloister enclosing various service-rooms connected with the chapel. On the quadrangle side an interior cloister connects the entire group of buildings.

An apartment house bounds the quadrangle on 122d Street, and provides ten residences for professors.

The students' dormitory extends from 121st to 122d Street on Broadway and contains about one hundred and fifty sets of rooms. Most of these comprise a study with bedroom adjoining; a few sets consist of a study and two bedrooms. Shower baths and ample toilet accommodations are provided on each floor. In the library tower, with direct access from the dormitory, is a social room for the use of the students.

The buildings are of native stone taken from the site, the window tracery and finished trimmings being of Indiana limestone. A marked detail of the ornamentation is the series of academic seals and shields, carved in this limestone, on several faces of the administration building and library.

The buildings are fireproof throughout, are heated by steam and lighted by electricity, and are ventilated in the most approved manner. The main heating and lighting plant of the group is placed underneath the dormitory at the lowest point of the site.

The quadrangle is turfed and planted, so as to form an attractive and quiet enclosure.

The architects of the buildings are Messrs. Allen & Collens of Boston, Mass.

LIBRARY AND MUSEUM

The library of the Seminary, on account both of its great size and the value of its collections, offers unusual opportunities to scholars and investigators. On the first of May, 1925 it contained about 163,933 volumes, 79,228 pamphlets, and 347 manuscripts. It began with the purchase in 1838 of the library of Leander Van Ess, consisting of over 13,000 volumes including such rare and valuable works as 430 incunabula, from A.D. 1469 to 1510; 1,246 titles of reformation literature, in original editions; 37 manuscripts; 4,209 volumes in church history, patristics, canon law, etc.; about 200 editions of the Vulgate and of German bibles (the earliest being 1470). Valuable additions have been made from the collections of the late Drs. Robinson, Field, Marsh, Gillett, Smith, Adams, Hatfield, Hitchcock, Schaff, Prentiss, Jackson, and others.

The leading theological and many of the literary reviews and periodicals of England, Germany, France, and the United States, to the number of about 200, are currently received.

To exegetical theology special attention has been given for the past seventy years, and the library contains many rarities; for instance, a collection of Greek testaments, gathered by the late Dr. Isaac H. Hall, and presented in 1898 by Mr. David H. McAlpin.

The Henry B. Smith Memorial Collection of Philosophy (endowed in 1887) contains the works of the leading American, English, French, and German philosophical writers.

In practical theology special purchases have recently been made in liturgics and canon law. To the hymnological department, the late Henry Day, Esq., presented in 1888 about 5,000 volumes, the library of Professor Frederic M. Bird. The future growth of this collection is assured through the Henry Day Memorial Fund, given by Mrs. R. Hall McCormick in 1909 in memory of her father.

The chief distinction of the library lies, however, in the field of historical theology. In patristics it contains many Benedictine and earlier imprints, the Migne sets and later critical editions of the fathers. Notable additions have recently been made to the literature of creeds and councils, polemics and irenics. A large number of volumes relating to Zwingli and the reformation at Zurich, constituting an almost exhaustive collection, was presented in 1901 by the Rev. Professor Samuel Macauley Jackson, D.D., LL.D. The Gillett Collection of American History (endowed in 1884 by the late David H. McAlpin) and the Field and other collections of pamphlets contain useful material for the study of the civil and religious history and the theology of America. Most valuable of all is the McAlpin Collection of British History and Theology (endowed in 1884 by Mr. McAlpin), gathered mainly under the supervision of the late Professor Briggs. It contains about fifteen thousand rare and important books and pamphlets relating to the early puritans, to the Westminster assembly, and to the deistic, trinitarian and ecclesiastical controversies of the eighteenth century, as well as a large collection of general and local histories of Great Britain and her churches.

A library of religious and moral education inaugurated in 1910 by generous gifts from many publishers is maintained in a separate room which contains also a separate card catalogue and facilities for reading and study. This library includes works on the general theory of education, educational psychology, and the practice of teaching; books and files of periodicals especially relating to the moral and religious phases of education; and the teaching material (printed and pictorial) of the various Sunday-school curricula.

The endowment of the Charles Cuthbert Hall Memorial Library of Christian Missions (completed in 1910) makes possible the expansion of the present collection of literature on missions and the civilizations and religions with which the missionary has to deal.

The reference library of between 4,000 and 5,000 volumes is composed of choice standard works and constitutes a model theological library, intended both for those who desire to pursue lines of study suggested in the classroom, and for any other persons in search of accurate information on theological topics. The public is encouraged to visit the library and the assistants are glad to make all the collections available to visitors. Special attention has been given to providing the latest and most valuable bibliographical tools, so that investigators will find their work greatly facilitated.

The library is open to the public during term time on every week-day from 8:45 a. m. to 6 p. m. and from 7 to 10 p. m. During vacation (with the exception of the month from the middle of August till the middle of September) the library is open to the public on every week-day, from 8:45 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The museum includes Biblical and Christian antiquities, and objects illustrating missionary life and work. Liberal contributions have already been received and others are solicited, especially from the missionary alumni.

Numerous other libraries in New York City containing material of value to the student of theology are readily accessible. Among them are the New York Public Library (Astor, Lenox and Tilden Foundations), now one of the largest in the country; the library of the General Theological Seminary of the Protestant Episcopal Church; the libraries of Columbia University, Teachers College, and the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. The last three are within easy reach of the Seminary.

RELATIONS WITH OTHER INSTITUTIONS

Relations of special and reciprocal academic courtesy exist with Columbia and New York Universities and with certain other neighboring institutions, by which they offer to properly accredited students of the Seminary the use of their libraries, subject to due regulations, and also grant to such students as are recommended by the Faculty, admission to the recitations and lectures of their graduate courses.

The Seminary in turn welcomes to its courses as special students, graduate students of Columbia and New York Universities, and such students of other affiliated institutions as may hold a bachelor's degree from an approved college or university.

Seminary students may, after enrollment, take courses in the institutions referred to, counting such credits toward graduation to the extent of eight points a year, but not exceeding sixteen points in the entire course. Points thus counted toward Seminary graduation, cannot be credited also toward the M.A. or Ph.D. degrees in Columbia or New York Universities. All students taking such courses must pay for them at the regular University rate. A registration fee is required for each semester, and a further fee for failure to register within the required time.

Students who elect courses at these affiliated institutions engage to attend them faithfully until their completion, and to submit to such quizzes, reviews and examinations as may be exacted of them by the professors or teachers in charge.

For particulars as to the summer session of Columbia University, address the Director of Summer Session, Columbia University, New York City.

DEGREES

Degrees in theology (the bachelor's, the master's and the doctor's degrees) are offered by the Seminary upon conditions set forth in subsequent statements in this catalogue. The degrees of master of arts and doctor of philosophy are offered by Columbia and New York Universities under conditions specified in their bulletins or catalogues. Seminary students are permitted to work for these degrees and certain Seminary courses are accepted in partial fulfilment of the university requirements. For the master's and doctor's degrees in education, and the doctor's degree in the history and philosophy of religion, see the conditions set forth on pages 55-59.

FELLOWSHIPS

TRAVELLING FELLOWSHIPS

Two travelling fellowships have been endowed for the purpose of encouraging special merit in the pursuit of higher theological culture. The one is known as "THE PHILADELPHIA FELLOWSHIP," endowed by "A Friend of the Seminary," the other as "THE FRANCIS P. SCHOOLS FELLOWSHIP," endowed by the friend whose name it bears. The income of these fellowships is appropriated to the support of incumbents, for two years each, in prosecuting special studies, either in this country or in Europe, under the direction of the Faculty.

The annual income of the two fellowships ($1,000 each) is appropriated subject to the following terms and conditions:

1. No person shall be eligible as fellow who has not been a member of this Seminary, and of the same class, for the full course leading to the degree of bachelor of divinity.

2. Those only shall be appointed fellows, annually or otherwise, according to the discretion of the faculty, who have made such proficiency in the original languages of the Bible and in general theological scholarship as to warrant their appointment, and who, in other respects, as to health, condition, and character, seem to the Faculty best fitted to improve the opportunities which these fellowships offer.

3. Those accepting appointments as fellows must agree to prosecute their studies, in this or other countries, for two years under the direction of the faculty and to their satisfaction, reporting to them semi-annually.

Two other travelling fellowships, one of them known as the Fogg Fellowship, each with an annual stipend of $1,000, have been provided with the same purpose of encouraging special merit in the pursuit of higher theological culture. One of them is offered to each graduating class upon the following conditions:

1. Holders of this fellowship must have been in residence here as undergraduate students for at least two years and have maintained a high grade in their Seminary work.

2. They must have made such proficiency in some department of theological scholarship as to warrant their appointment, and in other respects must seem to the Faculty fitted to improve the opportunities which the fellowship offers.

3. Those accepting the appointment must agree to prosecute their studies in this or in other countries during the term of the fellowship under the direction of the faculty.

4. The appointment will be made for one year, but may be renewed for a second year at the pleasure of the faculty.

All the above fellowships are awarded by the faculty upon its own initiative and are not to be applied for.

RESIDENT FELLOWSHIPS

Four resident fellowships have been provided for the purpose of encouraging advanced theological study. The annual stipend of these fellowships is $650 each. They are awarded for one year, but the period of tenure may be extended at the pleasure of the faculty. All four of them are offered for the academic year 1926-1927.

Holders of these fellowships must be graduates of high standing of this or of some other accredited theological institution, and they must agree to do a full year of graduate work here, specializing in a particular subject under the direction of some department of Seminary instruction.

Applications for the fellowships should contain full particulars as to the candidate's training and purposes and, if he be from another theological institution, must be accompanied by testimonials from the faculty of that institution.

All applications must be in the hands of the dean of students not later than the first of May preceding the academic year for which the awards are made.

There have been provided also certain resident fellowships open to graduates in theology of high standing from Great Britain, France and Switzerland. Three, designed particularly for Scottish students, have been endowed; the first, known as the Jarvie Fellowship, by Mr. James N. Jarvie; the second, known as the Sewickley Fellowship, by members of the Sewickley Valley Presbyterian Church; and the third, known as the Hugh Black Fellowship, by friends of Professor Black. Four other fellowships have been provided, one endowed by Mr. David B. Mills for an English student; one endowed by Mrs. William Sloane for a French student; and two for European students, one endowed by Mrs. John Hills in memory of her son John Stuart Hills, and the other by the Seminary Faculty in memory of the late President Francis Brown.

PREACHING FELLOWSHIP

A Resident Fellowship designed to encourage advanced preparation for the work of preaching has been founded by Miss Eleanor deGraff Cuyler. The annual stipend of the fellowship is $650. The fellowship is awarded for one year, but the period of tenure may be extended at the pleasure of the faculty.

The holder of this fellowship must be a graduate of high standing of this or of some other accredited theological institution. Applications for the fellowship should contain full particulars as to the candidate's training and purposes, and if he be a graduate of another theological institution, must be accompanied by testimonials from the faculty of the theological school of which he is a graduate, and also from some clergyman or other person competent to judge of his promise as a preacher and of his ability to profit by further training in preaching. The holder of this fellowship must agree to prosecute his studies during the full term of his appointment, under the direction of the faculty.

All applications must be in the hands of the dean of students not later than the first of May preceding the academic year for which the award is to be made.

MISSIONARY FELLOWSHIPS

Five resident fellowships, with an annual stipend of $750 each, have been provided for missionaries on furlough and for exceptionally qualified natives of mission lands. These are: The McFadden Fellowship, endowed by Mr. George H. McFadden in memory of his wife, Emily B. McFadden; The Ludington Fellowship, endowed by Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ludington; the Dodge Fellowship, endowed by Mr. Cleveland H. Dodge; the Bulkley Fellowship, endowed by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Bulkley; and the Safford Memorial Fellowship, endowed by friends of the late Theodore L. Safford, an alumnus of the class of 1923. Applicants for these fellowships must be persons of special attainment and promise who have already completed a course of theological study and have engaged in actual service in mission lands. Award of the Safford Fellowship is restricted to natives of mission lands.

The aim of the fellowships is to make possible advanced missionary preparation, and to encourage productive missionary scholarship. Preference will be given to those who seek the solution of some particular problem. Incorporation of results in a monograph will be encouraged.

The fellowships are awarded by the faculty for one year, but the period of tenure may be extended when quality of work or attending circumstances justify it. Holders of these fellowships must agree to prosecute their studies for the full term of their appointment, under the direction of the faculty.

No application for a fellowship will be considered unless accompanied by full statements not only from the applicant himself, but also from suitable officials (e. g., of the Mission, Board, or Church). Facts concerning the applicant's education, attainments, ability, purpose and health will be needed as an adequate basis for deciding the relative qualifications of the applicants for appointment. All applications with accompanying testimonials should be in the hands of the dean of students not later than the first of January preceding the academic year for which application is made.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Sixteen Prize Scholarships (apportioned equally among the four classes), each with an annual stipend of $500, are offered for competition by students about to enter upon the studies of the first, second, third and fourth year in this Seminary. Only graduates of high standing of approved colleges, are eligible to compete for first-year scholarships; students of high rank enrolled in this or some other approved seminary, may compete for second, third or fourth year scholarships, and graduates of other approved seminaries may enter the fourth-year examinations, provided their previous standing has been of high character.

Awards will be made to those students who make the best record in special competitive examinations, with the proviso that no award will be made to any competitor who does not pass the examinations with high credit. The awards are for a single year, but any holder of a scholarship may compete again for the following year upon the same terms as others. Holders of these scholarships will be known as Fayerweather, Baldwin, Ivison, or Sanders Prize Scholars and will be designated in the annual catalogue.

The examinations will be held in New York on the three successive days following the end of the academic year, and may be held in other places on the same days, when requested by eligible candidates. If any of these scholarships remain unawarded after the May examinations, supplementary examinations will be held at the Seminary in September on the three days immediately before the opening day of the academic year.

Applications by students coming from other institutions for admission to any of these examinations must be accompanied by testimonials of college or seminary standing. In the case of the May examinations, application must be made to the Registrar of the Seminary on or before April 15th; and in the case of the September examinations not later than the first of September.

The Prize Scholarship examinations will cover three subjects, one of which the applicant must designate as his major subject. The grade received in the major subject will be given double weight in calculating the average grade. A student who shall pass satisfactorily the examination in a subject for which advance credit is allowed (marked †) may receive such credit, whether he be successful in securing a scholarship award or not.

Students who have taken courses in seminary subjects either in this Seminary or elsewhere should not consider themselves thereby fully prepared for the prize examinations in such subjects, but must supplement the class-room work by further study and more extensive reading. Competitors for first-year scholarships must elect at least one subject from each of groups I and II. Competitors for second, third and fourth year scholarships must select one, or they may select all three subjects from group III. A subject previously offered as a minor may be elected again if designated as a major. Of the subjects marked with an asterisk (*), not more than two may be chosen in the same competition.

In all cases the examinations will be written, and the time for each is limited to four hours.

GROUP I, Languages:

†Hebrew †Greek, Classical or Hellenistic Latin French German

GROUP II, College Subjects:

*Ancient History	*†History of Western Civilization since the end of the eighteenth century with special reference to the modern scientific and social interests
*Mediæval History	Ethics

*Modern European Church History
*American Church History
*History of Christian Thought in the primitive and early Catholic Church to Augustine
*History of Christian Thought from Augustine to the Reformation

Eight scholarships with an annual stipend of $350 and ten with an annual stipend of $200 will be offered each year to graduates and undergraduates who have already been one or more years in this Seminary. The former will be awarded to the eight students who have attained the highest grade in the Seminary work of the previous year, the latter to the ten students next in rank, provided that none of the former will be awarded to anyone whose average grade for the year falls below A, and none of the latter to anyone whose average grade falls below B, and who has failed to win scholarly distinction in at least one subject. None of these scholarships will be awarded to the holder of a prize scholarship.

All the above scholarships will be regarded as honors and will be awarded without reference to pecuniary need. Holders of them may, if they choose, surrender their stipend without forfeiting their titles as scholars. Any stipend so surrendered will be given to another student if there be any eligible for the particular scholarship concerned.

Two Missionary Scholarships with a stipend of $450 each, are offered to persons engaged in Christian service in mission lands, whether missionaries on furlough or natives of those lands, provided they are duly qualified by their previous training to enter the Seminary and give satisfactory evidence of actual achievement and of promise for future service.

Persons accepting these scholarships must prosecute their studies in this Seminary as regular graduate or undergraduate students for at least one full academic year.

No application for these missionary scholarships will be considered unless accompanied by testimonials from officials (e. g., of the Mission, Board, or Church), giving information regarding the applicant's education, scholarly capacity and prospective work. All applications and testimonials should reach the dean of students of the Seminary not later than the first day of January preceding the academic year for which the scholarship is sought.

No student will receive more than one scholarship award in any one year.

SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS

The scholarship funds of the Seminary have been contributed by the following persons: Mr. Daniel B. Fayerweather; Mr. William Earl Dodge; Mrs. William H. Fogg in memory of her husband, William Hayes Fogg; Mrs. Amelia Kerr; Mr. John C. Baldwin; Mr. Andrew McClyment; Mr. David B. Ivison, in memory of his father, Henry Ivison; Mr. James Allen; Mr. Frederick Billings; Mr. Marcellus Hartley in memory of his daughter Emma Hartley; Miss Sarah B. Hills; Mr. Edwin M. Bulkley, in memory of his father, the Rev. Edwin A. Bulkley, D.D.; Mrs. A. E. Rood, in honor of her aunt, Ellen Naglee; Miss Alida Van Rensselaer Constable, in honor of the Rev. Thomas H. Skinner, D.D.; Mr. George D. Nicholas; Mrs. Jane E. Woolsey; Mrs. Amelia A. Cobb, in honor of Mr. Otis Allen; Mr. M. O. Halsted; Miss Jane Ward; Mrs. Margaret Scott Wood and Mrs. Elizabeth Scott Brayton; the Rev. E. R. Fairchild, D.D.; Miss Jane Blewitt; Mr. William L. King; Mr. William M. Halsted; Mr. Josiah H. Reed, in honor of the Rev. Asa D. Smith, D.D.; Mr. Ambrose K. Ely; Mr. D. Willis James; Miss Mary Townsend, in honor of the Rev. Jonathan F. Stearns, D.D.; Mrs. Caroline P. Stokes; Mr. J. F. Cook; Mrs. E. C. Griggs; the Rev. Henry M. Sanders, D.D.; the Presbyterian Church of Lake Forest, Illinois; the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church of Plainfield, N. J.; and others.

HITCHCOCK PRIZE IN CHURCH HISTORY

In accordance with a recommendation in the will of the late Professor Roswell Dwight Hitchcock, President of the Seminary 1880-1887, his family has endowed "The Hitchcock Prize in Church History." The income of this endowment ($200) is to be paid at or about Christmas in each year to such member of the senior class as, in the entire course in this Seminary, shall then have attained the highest excellence in church history and kindred subjects. Each competitor for this prize must have been a member of this Seminary for the two and one-half years next preceding the award, and must submit to the faculty an essay upon one of such topics as may be assigned. The essay must be typewritten and must be presented on or before the first Wednesday in December. All essays submitted in competition are to be deposited in the library. The award will be made on the basis both of classroom work and of the essay.

PHILIP SCHAFF PRIZE IN BIBLICAL THEOLOGY

From a gift of the late Professor Philip Schaff the Board of Directors, in accordance with his wish, has set aside a sum for the endowment of a prize in Biblical theology. The prize amounts to $125 and is offered annually upon the following conditions:

Competitors may be members of either the senior or third year class. They must be proficient in Biblical theology and kindred Biblical subjects, including Hebrew and Greek. They must submit to the faculty an essay upon one of such topics as may be assigned. The essay must be typewritten and must be presented on or before the second Wednesday in April. The award will be made to the successful competitor on or about the first day of May in each year, and the essay will be deposited in the library.

SELF-SUPPORT

New York and its environs offer numerous opportunities for self-support, the majority of which are of direct aid in the student's professional preparation. The Department of Field Work, in order to bring the student into contact with the more desirable opportunities and to counsel with him in his choice, conducts a student employment office to which institutions desiring student help regularly apply. Positions available each year include student pastorates, pulpit supply, the superintending of church schools, the teaching of Bible classes and the leading of boys' clubs both in institutional churches and social settlements. A student may secure remunerative work independently of the student employment office, but since such work often involves a larger amount of time than is consistent with his obligations to his studies, it is expected that, previous to the acceptance of any such positions, the student will consult with the director of field work for his counsel and sanction.

A student desiring remunerative work should make application by letter to the director of field work well in advance of the opening of the Seminary, stating his preference, and enclosing letters of reference and recommendation. This will expedite the placing of the student upon his arrival. But the director cannot guarantee employment in any instance, nor can he make a definite assignment previous to a personal interview with the student. Frequently there are considerable periods of delay in securing positions with which remuneration is connected, hence the student should be supplied with funds to maintain himself during the interval. The long summer vacation affords opportunity for such active service as will contribute toward self-support.

Attention is called to the opportunity for supervised field work with a remuneration of $400, during one academic year.* This remuneration can be guaranteed to any student regularly registered for the bachelor's degree. Academic credit for such supervised field work is also given.

FEES AND EXPENSES

All regular students are charged a tuition fee of $150 a year and all special students or those taking fewer courses than are required of regular students, a fee of $10 a curriculum point, a point representing approximately one hour a week for one semester.

The regular tuition fee of $150 will cover only the courses taken in the Seminary. The tuition fee of $150 is payable to the Bursar in two installments of $75 each, at the beginning of each semester. The tuition fees of special students are likewise payable at the beginning of each semester for the courses to be taken during that semester.

Registration for the courses in any semester will not be considered as completed until the tuition fees have been paid. The privilege of a late registration may be granted upon the payment of a fee of $5.

Rent is not charged for dormitory rooms, but each student occupying a room is charged $50 a year for heat, light and care of room. This is payable semi-annually in advance, at the beginning of each semester. No deduction is made in cases where students do not remain for the full periods indicated above. Students make their own arrangements for board and laundry.

The fee for the Bachelor's degree is $5.00, for the Master's degree, $10.00 and for the Doctor's degree, $25.00, payable on or before April 15th to the Bursar of the Seminary.

At Columbia University, a university membership fee of $6.00 is required in each term of each student registered, and a further fee of $6.00 is exacted in case of failure to register within the required time.

*See Department of Field Work.

ROOMS

The Seminary buildings include a dormitory with furnished rooms for the students. They are heated by steam and lighted by electricity and contain all necessary furniture and bedding, toweling alone excepted. Rooms are granted to regular students, but not to special students. Graduate students who take not less than 24 points (of which 20 must be in the Seminary itself), in each academic year, and students not candidates for graduation, who take not less than 24 points each year in the Seminary itself, may apply for dormitory privileges. A regular student who fails to complete at least 24 points in a preceding year will not be eligible for dormitory privileges in the subsequent year.

Rooms will be assigned to the capacity of the dormitory in the order of application, upon receipt of satisfactory testimonials and certificates, and the payment in advance of the fee ($25) for the first semester. This fee will be returned if the student shall fail to matriculate. Each incoming student will be required to report at the office of the registrar before taking possession of the room assigned to him. Rooms unclaimed by the opening day of the semester may be assigned otherwise.

Students' baggage should be addressed to No. 600 West 122d Street.

PHYSICAL EXERCISE

The gymnasium of the Seminary, erected at the northwest corner of Claremont Avenue and 120th Street, has been fully equipped in the most approved manner under expert advice. On Seminary grounds adjoining the gymnasium are several tennis courts to which students have free access under appropriate regulations.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES

Daily prayers are conducted by the professors in the chapel. One hour in every week is set apart for meetings of conference and prayer conducted by the faculty, for meetings under the auspices of the Seminary Students' Association, or for other missionary and general religious purposes. A devotional service is held at the opening of each academic year, and the communion of the Lord's Supper is celebrated at various times and also on the Sunday before Commencement.

Since the beginning of the academic year 1910-1911 Sunday morning services have been maintained, intended for students and such other persons in the neighborhood as are without regular church home.

A Sunday School, known as The Union School of Religion, is carried on during the academic year, under the supervision of the department of religious education. For a fuller statement of the nature of the school, see page 78.

CONFERENCES

The usual Lincoln's Birthday Conference of Social Workers was held, the general subject under consideration being "What part should Protestant churches take in serving a community made up of different races and creeds?" "For the social worker what are the sources of sustained enthusiasm?"

Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22, 1926, was designated by the Alumni Council with the approval of the Faculty, as Alumni Day. There were addresses by members of the Faculty in the morning; luncheon under the auspices of the New York Union Alumni Club was served in the Gymnasium; a discussion of Seminary interests followed, and the exercises concluded with a communion service in the chapel. This observance of the day will be repeated in 1927.

The fourth annual Conference on Church Work in City and Industrial Communities, for city pastors and other religious workers for a discussion of problems in this field, was held during June 2-12, 1925.

The fifth annual Mid-Summer Conference for Ministers and Religious Workers was held during July 6-17, 1925. This conference is of a more general nature for the consideration of problems in theological fields.

THE UNION SETTLEMENT

The Union Settlement, founded by the Alumni Club of the Seminary in 1893 and located in the heart of the crowded upper East Side, at 237 East 104th Street, stands in close though unofficial relation with the Seminary. Members of the Board of Directors and Faculty belong to the governing board of the settlement. President McGiffert is chairman of the board and Professor White is the secretary. Students are urged to take advantage of the opportunity which the settlement affords to acquaint themselves with the characteristic problems of congested populations. As residents, as leaders of boys' clubs, as gymnasium assistants, etc., they may gain valuable insight not only into human nature, but also into the character of the immigrant classes which, in many centers of population, so greatly complicate the question of religious effort.

SPECIAL LECTURES AND ADDRESSES

The Commencement Address at the close of the year 1924-1925 was delivered by Professor White, subject, "Learning to understand people." The Opening Address in September, 1925 was his inaugural, delivered by Professor Elliott; subject, "The significance of process in the progress of Christianity."

Occasional lectures and addresses were delivered during 1924-1925 by the following speakers, the names being arranged alphabetically: the Rev. George Alexander, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, New York, "The devotional life"; Norman Angell, "The church and the disorders of public opinion"; the Rev. Alexander James Carlyle, of University College, Oxford, "Religious experience of Europe in the nineteenth century"; the Rev. A. Bruce Curry, of the Biblical Seminary, New York, "Religious conditions in the colleges"; the Rev. Chauncey W. Goodrich, formerly pastor of the American Church in Paris, "European Protestantism"; Dr. Charles Hurrey, of the International Y. M. C. A., "Conditions of student life in Germany"; the Rev. Toyuhiko Kagawa, of Japan, "Some aspects of Christian sociology", and "The philosophy of non-resistance"; Professor David Gordon Lyon, of Harvard University, "The Palestine of to-day"; the Rev. Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church; Mr. Henry Morgenthau, formerly ambassador to Turkey; Dr. Rudolf Otto, Professor of Theology in the University of Marburg, "The relationship of Eastern and Western mysticism"; the Rev. Julius Richter, Professor of Missions in the University of Berlin, "Some lessons for the church from the history of Christian missions"; the Rev. Kenneth James Saunders, Professor in the Pacific School of Religion, "The Fourth Gospel and Asia: I, The Gospel and its Asiatic rival; II, The Gospel and the followers of Krishna and Sakyamuni"; Mr. Guy E. Shipler, editor of "The Churchman"; the Rev. Professor James Young Simpson, of New College, Edinburgh, "Creation: human and divine"; Alexander Souter, Regius Professor of Humanity, in the University of Aberdeen, "Saint Augustine"; and the Right Rev. William R. Stearly, Bishop Coadjutor of the diocese of Newark, "The devotional life".

The preachers in the Seminary Chapel at the services on Sunday mornings were the Rev. Alexander Hewes Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational Church of Norwich, Conn.; the Rev. Samuel Angus, professor of New Testament and Historical Theology in St. Andrew's College, Sydney, Australia; the Rev. Robert A. Ashworth, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, Yonkers, N. Y.; the Rev. William Russell Bennett, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Morristown, N. J.; the Rev. Philip S. Bird, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Utica, N. Y.; the Rev. Archibald Black, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Montclair, N. J.; the Rev. Charles Reynolds Brown, Dean of Yale Divinity School; the Rev. Willis H. Butler, pastor of the Asylum Avenue Congregational Church of Hartford, Conn.; the Rev. Harry L. Everett, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Jersey City, N. J.; the Rev. William E. Gilroy, Editor of "The Congregationalist"; the Rev. Chauncey

W. Goodrich, of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America; the Rev. George Angier Gordon, pastor of the Old South Church of Boston, Mass.; the Rev. William H. Hopkins, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Albany, N. Y.; the Rev. Murray S. Howland, pastor of the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church of Buffalo, N. Y.; the Very Rev. William Ralph Inge, Dean of St. Paul's, London; the Rev. Arthur H. Limouze, pastor of the Northminster Presbyterian Church of Columbus, Ohio; the Rev. John A. MacCallum, pastor of the Walnut Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, Pa.; the Rev. Alexander MacColl, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, Pa.; the Rev. Julius V. Moldenhawer, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Albany, N. Y.; the Rev. Professor Theodore G. Soares, of the University of Chicago; the Rt. Rev. William R. Stearly, Bishop Coadjutor of the diocese of Newark; and the Rev. Ambrose W. Vernon, Professor in Dartmouth College; and the following members of the Seminary Faculty, President McGiffert, Professors Black, Brown, Frame, Lyman and Scott.

In February, 1925, Dr. Clarence Dickinson, Musical Director, gave a series of four Historical Lecture Organ Recitals in the Seminary Chapel, continuing the custom begun in 1914.

MEDICAL SUPERVISION

The general health of the students in the dormitory is under the supervision of the medical director. Once a year each student is required to report for a physical examination, the result of which is placed on file. At stated hours during each week the medical director is in his office in the dormitory for consultation and advice. All cases of physical disability are reported to him promptly.

ADMISSION

Students seeking admission to the Seminary, either as regular or special students, must be graduates of a college of recognized standing.

All students must present in order to enrollment, the following papers:

First. An official statement of graduation from a college of recognized standing. For enrollment as a graduate student an official statement of graduation from a theological school of recognized standing is also necessary. A student coming from another theological school to advanced standing here must present an official dismissal from that school and a certificate showing the courses completed there. Such dismissal and certificate must be secured by the student himself, and forwarded to be filed with his other papers in the office of the dean of students.

Second. An official statement of church membership or of connection with some ecclesiastical body.

Third. Two letters of introduction from responsible persons, clergymen, professors, or others.

All letters or personal inquiries regarding admission to the Seminary should be addressed to the Dean of Students, the Rev. CHARLES R. GILLET, D.D.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF DIVINITY

The bachelor's degree will be granted upon the following conditions:

1. Candidates must be graduates of a college of recognized standing.

2. They must complete satisfactorily 112¹ curriculum points or their equivalent. Not more than 32 points may be counted in any one academic year, and to secure the total number of points may require four years, but this period may be reduced in certain circumstances to three and a half or three years. To obtain the degree in less than three years will not be possible. Students desiring to reduce the period of study to three and a half or three years are advised to come prepared in the following subjects: (a) the history of philosophy; (b) the history of western civilization since the end of the eighteenth century with special reference to the modern scientific and social interests; (c) classical or hellenistic Greek; (d) Hebrew; (e) the English Bible.¹ If on entering the Seminary they show, by examination or by satisfactory certificates, that they have an adequate knowledge of any of these subjects, they may receive advance credit to an amount not exceeding 28 points: (Not more than 8 points in (a), 6 points in (b), 8 points in (c) and 8 points in (d); 6 points may also be allowed in (e), but only by examination). Students receiving advance credit to the amount of 22 points, may enter the second year class directly from college. If at any time before graduation they show, by examination or otherwise, that they have an adequate knowledge of these subjects, they may receive like credit for them.²

3. They must choose a field of major interest³ in connection with some department of theology about which to organize their course of study. They must carry on their work under the direction and to the satisfaction of the department most nearly related to their chosen field, and will ordinarily be required to complete courses aggregating not less than 24 points within this field and directly related subjects. They must write a thesis upon an approved topic or problem involving investigation and experiment within the range of their field of major interest, and must pass a final examination, to be conducted by a committee of the faculty, upon the thesis in its relation to other subjects of theological study. In this examination candidates will be expected not only to show their acquaintance with the field of their major interest but also to give evidence of ability and resourcefulness within it.

The field of major interest shall be chosen by candidates ordinarily during the second year of their course, and in any case must be approved not later than the beginning of the last year of residence. The thesis must be presented not later than the first day of March preceding the commencement at which the degree is to be conferred, the subject of the thesis having been approved by the department at least four months before.

4. They must show that they have an adequate knowledge of (a) the history of philosophy; (b) the history of western civilization since the end of the eighteenth century with special reference to the modern scientific and social interests; (c) the Bible, its contents, religion and literature, including the ability to interpret the Old Testament in Hebrew or the New Testament in Greek; (d) the history of Christianity; (e) Christian theology.

¹ The requirement in this subject is not a knowledge of literary history or historical criticism, but familiarity with the contents of the English Bible, which will be tested by written or oral examination held on one of the three days preceding the opening of the Seminary in September.

² Beginning in September 1927 these credits will be awarded only at entrance.

³ Religious leadership in some particular form is regarded as a field of major interest.

The requirements in (a) and (b) may be met by examination or by certificate; those in (c), (d), and (e), by passing examinations in the subjects named or by completing courses in the same in this or in some other approved theological school. To ensure a proper correlation of these subjects with the field of major interest, candidates must choose their courses in consultation with the professor in charge of their field; but these courses shall in no case amount to less than 8 points each in Old Testament, New Testament, Church History and Systematic Theology, and 4 points in exegetical courses either in Hebrew or Greek. The specific requirements in each of the subjects (c), (d), and (e) are indicated in the announcements of the several departments.

5. The faculty reserves the right to exclude from graduation candidates whose papers show that they are unable to express themselves in clear and correct English.

6. Candidates for the degree are ranked as first year students during their first year of theological study, as second year, third year and senior students during the second, third, and fourth years, respectively. No student will be promoted from the first to the second year class until he has completed at least 22 curriculum points or their equivalent, from the second to the third year class until he has completed at least 52 curriculum points or their equivalent, and from the third year to the senior class until he has completed at least 80 curriculum points or their equivalent.

7. Graduates of colleges of recognized standing who have studied in an approved theological school may be admitted to advanced standing as candidates for the degree, upon the presentation of testimonials showing the completion, for admission to the second year class, of the equivalent of at least 22 curriculum points; for admission to the third year class the equivalent of at least 52 curriculum points; and for admission to the senior class the equivalent of at least 80 curriculum points. But no candidate will be granted the degree who has been in residence less than one full academic year, and has completed less than 28 curriculum points in this Seminary. Candidates admitted to advanced standing will be required before graduation to meet the conditions laid down in paragraphs 2-4.

8. Special students may receive the degree upon completing all the requirements set forth in paragraphs 2-4.

THE DEGREE OF MASTER OF THEOLOGY

The master's degree in theology (S.T.M.) will be given on the following conditions:

1. Candidates for the degree must be graduates of a college of recognized standing and must hold the bachelor's degree in theology from this or from some other approved institution. When they hold a bachelor's degree in theology representing an amount of work less than that required for our own bachelor's degree, they must do the extra work, either here or in some other approved institution, before being enrolled as candidates for the master's degree.

2. Before being enrolled as candidates for the master's degree they must be able to read the New Testament in Greek; and they must have a working knowledge of French or German to be tested within the first two weeks of the academic year.

3. After being accepted by the faculty as candidates for the master's degree, they must complete at least one full year of graduate study in this Seminary. The work for the degree may be taken all in one year or may be distributed over two or more years.

4. Candidates for the degree must choose a major subject in some department of theology and must carry on their work under the direction of the department and to its satisfaction. Within this department they must take a seminar and such other courses as the department may require. They must also write a thesis upon an approved topic falling within the range of their major subject. The thesis must be presented not later than the 15th of April preceding the Commencement at which the degree is to be conferred, the subject of the thesis having been approved by the department at least five months before. A copy of each thesis must be deposited in the library.

5. Travelling Fellows of this Seminary may be given the master's degree in theology at the expiration of two years of study in this country or abroad, provided they choose a major subject in some department of theology and carry on their work in it under the direction of the department and to its satisfaction, and provided they present a satisfactory thesis upon a topic approved by the department.

THE DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF THEOLOGY

The doctor's degree in theology (Th.D.) will be given on the following conditions:

1. Only students already holding the master's degree in theology from this institution will be accepted as candidates for the doctor's degree and only in case their work for the master's degree has been of a high order.

2. After having acquired the master's degree and after being accepted as candidates for the doctor's degree, they must spend at least one additional year in theological study in this Seminary under the direction of the faculty.

3. Before enrollment candidates for the degree must be able to read the Hebrew of the Old Testament and the Greek of the New Testament, and special attainments in Hebrew or Greek or Latin will be required if germane to the major subject. They must also possess a working knowledge of French and German.

4. Before enrollment candidates for the degree must pass an examination (1) that shall test their general knowledge of the religious ideas of Israel to the end of the first century of our era and of the history of Christian thought and (2) that shall test their special knowledge of one classic representative of Christian theology.

5. They must choose a special field of research from one of the following departments: Old Testament, New Testament, history of Christianity, history of religions, philosophy of religion, Christian theology or Christian ethics. The special field of research must be approved by the department concerned and by the committee on graduate study at least two semesters before the completion of residence for the degree. It is recommended that the field selected be the same as that chosen for the master's degree in theology.

6. They must prepare a thesis on a subject within the chosen field of research. The subject of the thesis must be approved by the department concerned and by the graduate committee not later than the beginning of the last year of residence for the degree. The subject of the thesis may be the same as that of the thesis for the master's degree if it be such as to afford adequate opportunity for further research. The thesis must rest upon independent investigation, must exhibit constructive ability and constitute a contribution to theological knowledge. The thesis must be printed before the degree is conferred.

7. Candidates for the degree must work under the direction and to the satisfaction of the department in which the thesis falls and of the committee on graduate study. Before the degree is conferred candidates must pass a final oral examination on the subject of the thesis, to be conducted by the faculty or a committee thereof.

THE DEGREES OF MASTER OF ARTS AND DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN EDUCATION

In Coöperation with Teachers College,
Columbia University

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MASTER'S DEGREE

Students primarily registered in the Seminary as candidates for the degree of bachelor of theology, who wish to secure the master's degree in education from Teachers College, Columbia University, may count toward the latter degree fourteen points of Seminary work, and these fourteen points may also be applied to the fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of bachelor of theology, but they must take in addition sixteen points in education. All of these thirty points must be selected with the approval of the director of the School of Education and of the proper advisors in the two institutions, and the candidates must conform to the regulations for the master's degree as given in the Announcements of the School of Education, Teachers College. The additional sixteen points required for the master's degree in education, must be paid for by the candidate at the rate of ten dollars per point, over and above the regular Seminary tuition fee. None of the points taken in affiliated institutions in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the bachelor's degree in theology, may be counted toward the sixteen points in education already mentioned. Thus the requirement for the bachelor's degree in theology and the master's degree in education, will amount to 128 points if both degrees are sought. In addition, each candidate for the master's degree in education must prepare a master's essay, or present its equivalent. If two points are offered in lieu of this essay, they must be in addition to the 128 points, and be paid for at the regular university rate. If a student at the Seminary should register for the master's degree after the beginning of his course at the Seminary, only those courses taken in the Seminary after such registration can be applied to the master's degree.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE DOCTOR'S DEGREE

Students of the Seminary may specialize in religious education, looking toward the degree of doctor of philosophy from Columbia University. This is made possible by an arrangement, entered into in May, 1924, with the department of Educational Research of Teachers College, Columbia University, and under the jurisdiction of the faculty of philosophy of the University.

By this arrangement, the Seminary faculty shares directly with the faculty of Teachers College in the student's work for the doctor's degree. Seminary students majoring in religious education or related fields, are recognized as specializing in the teaching of religion, and may, therefore, include in their work for the degree, as "approved equivalents" to courses in education in Teachers College, such courses in the Seminary as are recommended by the major professor as inherently necessary to the proper preparation of the dissertation or to success in the field in which the candidate is to specialize. These courses must be approved by the committee on higher degrees. No definite requirement is made as to the proportion of courses to be taken in the Seminary or Teachers College, this depending upon the dissertation and the field of specialization. The subject of major interest and the major professor may be either from the Seminary or Teachers College, and members of the faculty of the Seminary will share with members of the faculty of the department of educational research of Teachers College in a joint advisory system for the approval of students' programs for the doctor's degree, in matriculation examinations, in the committee for the guidance of the dissertation, and in the oral examination, and the final approval of the dissertation as appointed and approved by the dean of the faculty of philosophy.

Seminary students who wish to take the Ph.D. degree must also make special University registration through the Seminary for the same. Candidates for the doctor's degree, other than graduate students, taking not less than 24 points in any one year in the Seminary itself, and graduate students taking not less than 20 points in the Seminary itself, will be enrolled in the Seminary catalogue as regular students, and will be eligible for rooms in the Seminary dormitory. If they have completed three years of theological study, this number may be reduced at the discretion of the committee on graduate study. Of the three years of academic study and work upon the dissertation, usually necessary to complete the requirements for the degree of Ph.D., a minimum of thirty points (one year's work) must be in studies for which special University registration through the Seminary has been made, whether these studies are taken in the Seminary or in the University, and for which the regular University fee of ten dollars per point has been paid. In all cases the University registration fee of six dollars must be paid each semester of University registration.

Further particulars touching the degree may be had from the department of Religious Education and Psychology at the Seminary or from the director of the School of Education, Columbia University.

THE DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN THE PHILOSOPHY AND HISTORY OF RELIGION

In Coöperation with the Department of Philosophy,
Columbia University

Beginning in September 1923, the department of philosophy in Columbia University enlarged its offerings by including the philosophy of religion and the history of religion as fields of special study leading to the degree of Ph.D. Advantages for study in these fields are offered by the University in co-operation with the Seminary. Candidates for the degree may choose as their field of research the philosophy of religion, or the history and literature of any one of the great religions, including Christianity.

Students registered in the Seminary who wish to take the Ph.D. degree must also register in the University, and will be matriculated for the degree if recommended by the department of philosophy to the Dean of the Graduate Faculties.

Candidates for the degree must do two years of graduate work, at least one of them after registration at Columbia University, and must complete courses amounting to 30 curriculum points.¹ These courses must be chosen from those printed in the announcements of the University, which include Seminary courses offered by the departments of Old Testament, New Testament, Church History, History of Religions, and Philosophy of Religion. No regulations for the election of specific courses are laid down by the department of philosophy for candidates for the doctorate. The demands are expressed solely in quality of work and in academic residence.

The candidate must prepare a dissertation approved by the department, and embodying the results of his researches. Before intensive work upon the dissertation is undertaken, the candidate must be certified by the department as prepared for such research. The certification of the department will be given after the candidate has successfully passed two written examinations which shall be four hours each in length and will be given in room 701 Philosophy Hall on the second Wednesday and Thursday in January and May, and on the fifth Wednesday and Thursday of the Summer Session. The first of these examinations will be a general examination on the history of philosophy and presupposes, in addition to a knowledge of the chief philosophical writers and works, an appreciation of historical method and a knowledge of the most important contributions in the fields of metaphysics, logic and ethics. The second of these examinations will be set with reference to the special study in which the student is engaged within the field of the philosophy or history of religion. Candidates must in addition pass a two-hour oral examination which will be conducted by a committee appointed by the department. The oral examination will be set for such time after the written examinations have been passed as shall suit the convenience of the department. The oral examination will cover such subject or subjects as the committee shall decide essential to the mastery of the field of special interest and research chosen by the candidate.

Before certification by the department, the candidate must pass an oral examination in the reading of French and German.

When the dissertation is completed a second oral examination of the candidate will be conducted on his dissertation by a committee appointed by the dean of the Graduate Faculties. The dissertation must be printed before the degree is conferred.

Seminary students may become candidates for the Ph.D. degree at any time. The same courses may not be counted both for the Ph.D. and for a Seminary degree. Candidates for the Ph.D. degree taking not less than 24 points in any one year in the Seminary itself will be enrolled in the Seminary catalogue as regular students, and will be entitled to rooms in the Seminary dormitory. If they have completed three years of theological study, this number may be reduced at the discretion of the committee on graduate study. The 30 curriculum points required for the Ph.D. degree must be paid for at the rate of ten dollars a point, whether taken in the University or in the Seminary. In all cases the university registration fee of $6 must be paid each semester. Further particulars touching the degree may be had either from the secretary of Columbia University or the registrar of the Seminary.

STUDENTS NOT CANDIDATES FOR A DEGREE

Graduates of colleges of recognized standing not candidates for a degree may be admitted to take such courses as they wish.

Students electing not less than 24 points in the Seminary itself in any one academic year, and paying the regular tuition fee of $150 will be enrolled as regular students even though not candidates for a degree, and will be entitled to rooms in the dormitory.

GRADUATE STUDENTS

Graduates of this and of other approved theological schools may be received as graduate students. They may become candidates for any of the degrees described above, and may receive them upon completing the specified requirements, or they may elect such courses as they choose. Whether candidates for a degree or not they must complete the courses elected, and if they wish to room in the dormitory they must elect and complete not less than 24 points in each academic year and pay the regular tuition fee of $150.

SPECIAL STUDENTS

Students (other than graduate students) electing less than 24 points in the Seminary itself in any one year will be enrolled as special students, will be charged a fee of $10 a curriculum point, and will not be entitled to rooms in the dormitory.

Special students as well as regular students must be graduates of colleges of recognized standing. They may receive the bachelor's degree in theology upon completing the requirements for graduation.

COURSES OF STUDY FOR THE ACADEMIC YEAR 1925-1926

Students are required to indicate to the Registrar during the first week of each semester, the courses of study (including also the courses in affiliated institutions) which they desire to pursue during the semester. The privilege of late registration may be granted upon the payment of a fee of $5. The schedule of hours is given at the end of the Courses of Study.

Odd numbers indicate the first, even numbers the second semester of the academic year. Courses designated 1-2, 11-12, etc., continue throughout the year. Courses numbered from 91 to 99 are seminars and those marked 101 or over, are primarily intended for graduates.

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

The course described below is designed to be a general introduction to the work of the Seminary. Opportunity will be given for the consideration of questions of personal belief and other problems which students bring with them; of problems of adjustment involved in the new contacts of the Seminary, both within the class-room and outside, and of questions growing out of direct observation and supervised practice work. Professors in other departments more directly concerned will coöperate as problems emerge in which they are especially interested. Those not engaged in observation and field work and who wish to enroll for the class and committee sessions will be admitted only by special arrangement with the instructors.

1-2. General Introduction (Systematic Theology 10, Religious Education 11-12, Church and Community 11-12, and Field Work 1A-2A). The work of the first semester will be under the direction of Professor ELLIOTT. The problems which emerge in the supervised field work will form the focus for the discussion, study and experimentation of the class. Through individual and group conferences the members of the class will be given immediate coöperation in making a success of their field work and in developing certain kinds of skill in class and club leadership. By the integration of this practical work with the general class discussions, the students will be helped to solve their problems from a community point of view and to utilize in their work the results of educational thought and practice. A range of problems will be opened up, on which preliminary help will be given through the work of the semester: but contact will be maintained with allied courses, to which students will be referred for the discussion of questions that require longer consideration, while certain problems will be postponed to the second semester for more systematic study. It is expected that many questions will emerge in the first semester to which the students will be giving further consideration during the entire Seminary course.

The work of the second semester will be under the direction of Professor BROWN. It will attempt, through an analysis of the task of the ministry, to help the student to realize the intellectual problems with which the minister and other religious workers have to deal, and will furnish opportunity for the re-thinking of the meaning of religious experience in the light of the personal religious problems of the student. It will discuss such subjects as the purpose of theological study, the subject matter and problems with which it deals, the contributions which the several departments make to the solution of the problems and their relation to the practical work of the churches, and will aim, in the light of this discussion, to help students to organize their course of study intelligently.

The supervised practice work, conducted with the coöperation of the department of field work, will be integrally related to the work of both semesters. Professors BROWN, ROSS, WHITE, ELLIOTT, Mr. SWIFT, Mr. BUSCH, Mr. HOWSON, and Mr. MICHAELIDES, with the coöperation of other members of the Faculty. Four hours weekly throughout the year.

Ten points (four for class and committee sessions; one for field work each semester). W., F., 11-1.

OLD TESTAMENT

The Old Testament requirement for the bachelor's degree may be met by the satisfactory completion of the courses 1-2, and 83-84, or by passing an examination which will test the candidate's knowledge of the contents, literature and religion of the Old Testament. In the case of those students who elect Hebrew instead of Greek, the further requirement is made of at least four points in the exegesis of the Hebrew Old Testament, or an examination to test their ability to interpret the Old Testament in Hebrew, covering thirty chapters of its prose and poetry. The examinations may be taken separately, and either may be substituted for the corresponding courses.

a. INTRODUCTION

1-2. The History, Literature, and Religion of the Old Testament Outline. Designed to be an introduction to the study of the Old Testament. Questions of the structure, date, and authorship of the Old Testament documents, of their historical content, and of their teachings, are discussed. In connection with this course, a series of quizzes on the contents of the Old Testament is conducted by Dr. KRAELING. Prof. BEWER; two hours weekly throughout the year. Four points Tu., Th., 10.

b. PHILOLOGY

The work in Hebrew philology and exegesis begins with the rudiments of the language, and proceeds to the detailed interpretation of the Old Testament in Hebrew as soon as the student is qualified to undertake it. Provision is made for advanced study on the part of those who enter the Seminary with a working knowledge of Hebrew. The earlier courses include selections from the various sorts of literary composition contained in the Old Testament, and their chief aim is to enable the student to read the Hebrew Bible intelligently; the later courses are intended to give him a larger acquaintance with the field of Old Testament literature and a wide range of training in critical exegesis.

11. Introductory Hebrew Grammar, with exercises in reading and writing Hebrew, followed by the reading of selected chapters of the Hebrew Bible. Dr. KRAELING; first semester, three hours weekly.
Four points. M., W., F., 9.
12. Readings in the Hebrew Narratives, especially of Genesis and Exodus, with exercises. This course is intended to give a considerable vocabulary, and facility in reading and translating Hebrew prose. Dr. KRAELING; second semester, three hours weekly. Presupposes Old Testament 11 or its equivalent.
Four points. M., W., F., 9.
13. Selections from Hebrew Historical Writings. The purpose of this course is to introduce the student to the chief sources of Israel's history. Dr. KRAELING; first semester, two hours weekly. Presupposes a mastery of the elements of Hebrew grammar.
Two points. W., 4-6.
14. Late Hebrew Writings. Ruth, Esther, and Daniel will be studied with attention to grammar and the acquisition of vocabulary. Dr. KRAELING; second semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. F., 2-4.
16. Biblical Aramaic. The purpose of this course is to study the language of Daniel II, 4b-VII, 28; Ezra IV, 8-VI, 18, VII, 12-26; and Jeremiah X, 11. Presupposes Old Testament 11. Prof. FAGNANI; second semester, one hour weekly.
One point. W., 3.

c. EXEGESIS: HEBREW

These courses are open only to students who have taken Old Testament 11-12 or Old Testament 13, or the equivalent.

- 29a. I Isaiah, i-xii. Prof. FAGNANI; first semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. F., 4-6.
- 30a. II Isaiah, xl-lv. Prof. FAGNANI; second semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. Tu., 4-6.
- 30b. Jeremiah. Prof. FAGNANI; second semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
31. Pre-Exilic Prophets; Selections. Prof. FAGNANI; first semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
32. Post-Exilic Prophets; Selections. Prof. FAGNANI; second semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
- 33-34. Psalms. Prof. FAGNANI; one hour weekly throughout the year.
Two points. First semester, M., 11. Second semester, Th., 4.
- 35b. Job. Prof. FAGNANI; first semester, two hours weekly.
[Not given in 1925-26.]

- 37a. Ecclesiastes. Prof. FAGNANI; first semester, one hour weekly.
One point. M., 2.
- 37c. Lamentations. Prof. FAGNANI; first semester, one hour weekly.
One point. [Not given in 1925-26.]
- 93-94. Old Testament Seminar: Deuteronomy. Prof. BEWER; two hours weekly throughout the year. Open to a limited number of graduates and other students of high standing after personal application to the professor. Presupposes a working knowledge of Hebrew.
Four points. M., 10-12.
106. Textual Criticism of the Old Testament, including studies in the ancient versions. Prof. BEWER; second semester, two hours weekly. Open to graduates and other qualified students.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
- (See also the Bulletins of Columbia and New York Universities for additional courses.)

d. EXEGESIS: ENGLISH

These courses are intended primarily for students not taking Hebrew, although others desiring them will not be excluded. They involve a critical examination of the text verse by verse, comparison of the various English translations, and the working out of a new and improved version. Indispensable for those who do not take Hebrew, while desiring to be intelligent students of the Scriptures.

51. The Early Narratives of Genesis. Prof. FAGNANI; first semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. W., F., 1.
- 58d. Apocalypses of Daniel and John. Prof. FAGNANI; second semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. F., 2-4.
61. Pre-Exilic Prophets; Selections. Prof. FAGNANI; first semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
62. Post-Exilic Prophets; Selections. Prof. FAGNANI; second semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
64. Psalms; Selections. Prof. FAGNANI; second semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
- 69b. Ezra-Nehemiah. Important for the history of the Return. Prof. FAGNANI; first semester, one hour weekly.
One point. [Not given in 1925-26.]

e. HISTORY

These courses aim at a critical understanding of the history of Israel and its place in the history of the world, and form thus the historical background for the courses in Old Testament theology. A knowledge of Hebrew, while of great advantage, is not required of students taking courses 71, 72 and 74.

71. History of Israel to the Exile. Prof. BEWER; first semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. W., F., 9.
72. History of Israel During and After the Exile. Prof. BEWER; second semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

74. Archaeology and the Old Testament. Prof. BEWER; second semester, two hours weekly. Presupposes Old Testament 1-2.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

f. LITERATURE

77. Introduction to the Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha. This course deals with their contents, composition, date, authorship, historical and religious value. A knowledge of Hebrew and Greek is not required. Prof. BEWER; first semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

g. THEOLOGY

These courses are based upon the Old Testament interpreted by historical criticism and careful exegesis. A knowledge of Hebrew, while of great advantage, is not required of students taking them. The aim is to give the student an acquaintance with the Biblical material and practice in gathering and using it. Papers on particular topics are required.

83. The Religion of the Earlier Prophets. Prof. BEWER; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. Tu., Th., 9.
84. The Religion of the Later Prophets. Prof. BEWER; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. Tu., Th., 9.
85. The Religion and Ethics of the Jewish Apocalypses. Prof. BEWER; first semester, two hours weekly. Presupposes Old Testament 1-2. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

NEW TESTAMENT

The New Testament requirement for the bachelor's degree may be met by the satisfactory completion of the Courses 1-2, and 79-80, and (if the required exegesis is taken in Greek rather than in Hebrew) of at least four points in the exegesis of the Greek New Testament:

Or by passing an examination which will test (1) the candidate's knowledge of the contents, literature, and religion of the New Testament and (2) his ability to interpret the New Testament in Greek. The examination under (2) presupposes a working knowledge of New Testament Greek and a detailed study of Mark I.1-IX.1, of Matthew V.1-VII.27, and of the Epistle to the Galatians. If desired, (1) and (2) may be taken separately and either alone substituted for the corresponding courses.

Courses 11-12 and 13 are designed to give students a working knowledge of New Testament Greek. Courses in exegesis and all other courses which require, as specified below, a working knowledge of New Testament Greek presuppose 11-12 and 13 or the equivalent.

Professors Frame, Scott, Jackson, and Tryon will direct privately the work of graduate and other advanced students competent to undertake the special study of such subjects as they may select within the field of the New Testament.

a. INTRODUCTION

- 1-2. Introduction to the New Testament. Brief survey of the history of the canon, text, and translations; detailed study of the origin, form, contents, and ideas of the several books. In connection with the lectures, the students are required to do a certain amount of reading, both in primary sources including the entire New Testament in English, and in secondary sources. Prof. FRAME; two hours weekly throughout the year. Four points. W., F., 10.
- 15. Text and Canon of the New Testament. Prof. TRYON; first semester, two hours weekly. A working knowledge of New Testament Greek is required. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
- 8. Geography and Archaeology of the New Testament. Prof. TRYON; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

b. PHILOLOGY

- 11-12. Elements of New Testament Greek. Dr. KRAELING; three hours weekly throughout the year. Open to beginners in Greek. Eight points. M., W., F., 10.
- 13. Grammar of New Testament Greek, with readings in the New Testament. Dr. KRAELING; first semester, two hours weekly. Open to those who have taken 11-12 or who have had Greek in college. Three points. M., F., 2.

c. EXEGESIS

These courses presuppose a working knowledge of New Testament Greek and are open only to those who have taken 11-12 and 13 or the equivalent.

- 21a. The Gospel of Matthew. Prof. SCOTT; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. Tu., Th., 11.
- 21b. The Gospel of Mark. Prof. FRAME; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
- 30a. The Epistle to the Romans. Prof. SCOTT; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
- 30c. The Epistle to the Galatians. Prof. FRAME; second semester two hours weekly. Two points. Tu., Th., 11.
- 123-24. The Fourth Gospel. Prof. FRAME; two hours weekly throughout the year. Especially designed for graduates and other advanced students. Four points. Tu., 9-11.
- 125-26. The Book of Acts. Prof. FRAME; two hours weekly throughout the year. Especially designed for graduates and other advanced students. Four points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

d. THEOLOGY

- 79-80. New Testament Theology. An outline course in the religious ideas of the New Testament, with especial reference to the teaching of Jesus, Paul, and John. First semester, Prof. FRAME; second semester, Prof. SCOTT; two hours weekly throughout the year. Four points. W., F., 9.

74. The New Testament and Contemporary Religion. The course will deal with the social and intellectual conditions of the Roman world in the first century, and especially with the religious movements which are now recognized as important influences in the moulding of New Testament thought. Prof. SCOTT; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
85. The Johannine Writings. The course will include a survey of the different theories as to the origin and character of the writings attributed to the Apostle John, and a detailed examination of their theological teaching. Prof. SCOTT; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. M., 11-1.
88. The Church in the New Testament. The course will deal with the origin and development of the idea of the church in New Testament times. Special attention will be given to the New Testament teaching on the worship, sacraments, ministry and institutions of the church. Prof. SCOTT; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. M., 10-12.
- 93-94. Seminar. The knowledge of God in the New Testament. A study of the conception of God in the teaching of Jesus and in the later New Testament literature; with special reference to the processes, moral, intellectual and mystical, by which this knowledge of God is attained. Prof. SCOTT; two hours weekly throughout the year. Open to graduates and other advanced students, after consultation with the professor. Four points. M., 4-6.

c. HISTORY

Two points. W., Th., 3.

47. The Epistle to the Hebrews. An interpretation of the message of the Epistle, with a view to discovering the elements of permanent value to the preacher. Open to all except first year students. Prof. FOSDICK; first semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]*

CHURCH HISTORY

In Church History the requirement for the bachelor's degree in theology, may be met by the satisfactory completion of eight points; or by passing an examination which will test the candidate's knowledge of the history of Christianity since New Testament times with special reference to the development of thought and institutions.

Courses 1, 2 and 6 are designed to cover in outline the history of the church from the first to the nineteenth century; courses 3 and 4, the history of Christian thought from the beginning to the present time. In each of these courses, as well as in some of the others, students are required to do a certain amount of reading in the works of the fathers and other great leaders and thinkers of the church. The other courses supplement these general courses, and aim to give a fuller knowledge of particular periods and, in the case of the seminars and graduate courses, to afford special training in independent historical investigation. Course 101-102 and a seminar are offered every year; courses 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 8, 13, 19, 20, 22, 25, 61, and 63-64 are offered every second year.

*On account of Prof. Fosdick's absence on sabbatical leave.

HISTORY OF RELIGIONS

These courses offer a documentary and historical survey of all the main religious systems which are now alive in the world, outside the Bible. Particular consideration is given to their relations to Christianity. The aim is to gather authentic knowledge, especially from their own sacred scriptures, concerning the important facts in each religion. A more detailed study is conducted of those religions which prevail in the foreign missionary fields. A study of the original languages of the sacred scriptures of the world may be pursued at Columbia University.

11. History of Religions. A systematic survey of each of the living organized, extra-Biblical systems of religion; their origin, history, scriptures and teachings. Prof. HUME; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. Tu., Th., 9.
12. Comparative Study of Religions. Humanity's organized religious conceptions, ethical ideals and rules, special rites and institutions classified and compared. Prof. HUME; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. Tu., Th., 9.
17. Ethnic and Christian Gospels. The presentation of the Christian message in contrast with, and in application to, the chief religions of the world. Prof. HUME; first semester, one hour weekly. One point. M., 11.
21. Hinduism. A survey of its successive historical stages. Assigned readings in its sacred scriptures and other sources. (A knowledge of Sanskrit would be of assistance in this course.) Prof. HUME; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. W., F., 10.
22. Religions of India. Hinduism, Jainism, Zoroastrianism, Sikhism, the special Samajes within Hinduism, Theosophy. Also a brief survey of the recent religious movements in India. Prof. HUME; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
25. Buddhism. The life, character, and influence of the Buddha. The original features and the later developments of the system. Its historical extension through the East. Prof. HUME; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. M., W., 2.
30. Religions of China. Confucianism, Taoism and Buddhism: the founders, their teachings; the formulation of the systems; the historical outworkings. The minor religions in China. Prof. HUME; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. M., W., 2.

COURSES GIVEN IN COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

- Chinese 303-304. Religion in Modern China. The religious heritage of China and its significance; the change in Taoism and Confucianism; the awakening of Buddhism and the growth of eclectic movements. Prof. HODOUS. Three points each semester.

PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION

The work of this department is intended to afford an opportunity for the study of the more fundamental problems involved in forming a religious and Christian philosophy of life and in interpreting religion to the modern world. The results of the psychological and historical study of religion are made the basis of the work, and the leading points of view in general philosophy are given frank and careful consideration. The method employed is designed to be unreservedly philosophical rather than apologetic, and the effort is made to organize the results of the various studies so as to bear upon the deeper practical and social issues of our time.

- 5-6. Introduction to the History of Philosophy. Mr. HOWSON; two hours weekly throughout the year. Four points. F., 4-6.

12. The Philosophy of Religion. A comprehensive treatment of the subject. Some of the topics treated are: religion and social evolution; religion and the validity of the democratic ideal; the theory of religious knowledge; the meaning of religious experience; the idea of God and theories of evolution; naturalism; absolute idealism; the problem of freedom; pantheism; is God infinite or finite? the problem of evil; the further development of religion. It is advantageous for this work if it is preceded or accompanied by some study of the history of religions. Lectures, reports, discussions, and group conferences under the direction of instructors. Prof. LYMAN; second semester, four hours weekly.

Six points. [Not given in 1925-26.]*

14. Theism. The psychology and philosophy of theistic belief. Lectures, reports, discussions, and group conferences under the direction of instructors. Prof. LYMAN; second semester, two hours weekly. Three points. [Not given in 1925-26.]*

- 15-16. The Psychology of Theism. A scientific approach to religion and its implications for the devotional life. The work of the first semester will be a careful study of the scientific method to discover the possibilities and the limitations of science, especially as applied to the study of the conception of God, followed by a study of the nature of God in so far as it is revealed in the evolutionary process. In the second semester, on the basis of the first semester's work, prayer will be studied comparatively and psychologically to discover how we can have the abiding consciousness of communion with God. Mr. HOWSON; two hours weekly throughout the year. Four points. W., F., 9.

*On account of Professor Lyman's absence on sabbatical leave.

17. Religion and Ethics. Advanced course. Is ethics autonomous? Is religion more than ethics? What validity have the leading philosophical theories as to the relation between religion and ethics? What do the typical historical connections and divergencies between them teach? What is the most constructive interpretation of their interconnection? Prof. LYMAN; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]*
18. Religious Aspects of Contemporary Philosophy. Advanced course. From the standpoint of the philosophy of religion, topics like the following will be investigated: the contrast between idealism and pragmatism; the philosophy of Bergson; the issue raised by neo-realism; the more substantial contemporary philosophical literature not included in the foregoing movements. Discussions and papers. Prof. LYMAN; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]*
19. The Contribution of Philosophy to the Development of the Moral Life. The course will deal with such topics as: the influence of the Sophists, Socrates, Plato and Aristotle on Greek life; the influence of later philosophical developments on the moral ideals of the Græco-Roman world; philosophy and mediæval life; the philosophy of the renaissance and Italian society; British philosophy and political liberalism; the effect of the enlightenment and romanticism on the humanitarian movement; philosophies of history and the ideal of progress; the idealist philosophy and the new education; philosophy and modern social reform. Discussions and papers. Prof. LYMAN; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]*
23. The Philosophy of the Christian Religion. The functional significance of Christianity; the meaning and validity of the leading Christian ideas; Christianity and the religion of the future. Lectures, reports, discussions, and group conferences under the direction of instructors. Prof. LYMAN; first semester, two hours weekly. Three points. [Not given in 1925-26.]*
32. The Development of the Christian Idea of God. Prof. MCGIFFERT; second semester, two hours weekly. (Identical with Church History 8.) Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
- 91-92. Seminar. The conception of the supernatural; its psychological basis, the historical forms which it has assumed, its philosophical implications and its present significance for the religious life. Open to advanced students after personal application to the professor. Prof. BROWN and Mr. HOWSON; two hours weekly throughout the year. (Identical with Systematic Theology 91-92.) Four points. Tu., 4-6.
94. Seminar in Fundamental Problems. The place of religion in society today. Open to a limited number of students after application. Mr. HOWSON and Mr. BUSCH; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. M., 10-12.

SYSTEMATIC THEOLOGY

The courses offered in this department fall into two groups. The first group, which consists of courses 1-2, and 10, gives a general survey of the field of Christian doctrine and is designed to acquaint those who are looking forward to the Christian ministry or other forms of active Christian service with the chief problems which will meet them in the field of theology, and suggest the most helpful method of dealing with them. Course 10 is designed for students in their first year and is intended to give a general introduction to the study of theology. Course 1-2 gives an outline of the entire field of Christian doctrine, and consists of two parts, each of which is an independent unit. The purpose of the course is to give the student an acquaintance with the fundamental convictions which form the subject matter of Christian preaching and teaching, as those convictions have been formulated in the historic creeds and as they are interpreted to the church today by living thinkers in the several communions. The second group, consisting of courses 12, 14, 32, 33, 43, and 91-92, provides opportunity for detailed study of the more important parts of the field for those whose plans require such special acquaintance, or whose interest in the subject leads them to desire to carry their study further than is possible in a general course. The method of the latter courses is a combination of lecture and seminar, special reading being assigned and opportunity being allowed for free discussion in the classroom. Course 32 on the theology of Presbyterianism, is designed to give an acquaintance with the Calvinistic system in one of its classical expressions, and is especially recommended to Presbyterians. Course 33 gives a similar detailed study of the work of modern theologians. Course 35 examines some of the major issues raised in the recent fundamentalist controversy. Courses 12 and 14 discuss in detail the central problems of Christian theology, the person of Christ and the nature of salvation. Special topics are studied from year to year in the Seminar 91-92.

In this connection, attention is called to the courses on the doctrine and polity of various churches. (See Systematic Theology 32 and Christian Institutions 61 to 70.)

The requirement for the bachelor's degree in the department of systematic theology may be met by the satisfactory completion of eight points in this department, to be chosen after consultation with the Faculty advisers; or by a single general examination covering the whole field.

10. Introduction to the Study of Theology. See General Introduction 1-2.

- 1-2. Outline Course in Christian Theology. The method of the course will be by lecture, reading and class discussion. The class will be divided into committees for the study and discussion of assigned topics and individual men will be made responsible for selected subjects or books. The course falls into two parts, each occupying four hours weekly. If the course is divided, it is recommended that the first part be taken in the second year.

- 1. Part I. The emphasis in the first part of the course will be historical. The aim will be to acquaint the student with the chief conceptions of the Christian gospel which meet us in the church today. Interest will centre in such questions as "What is the distinctive message of the Christian religion?" "What does it share with other religions?" "In what different ways do its adherents understand that message?" "What reason have we for believing that the Christian gospel is true?" Special attention will be given to the answers to these questions by the Roman Catholic church, by the older Protestantism, by contemporary fundamentalism and the representatives of modern social Christianity. Prof. BROWN and Mr. HOWSON; first semester, four hours weekly.

Four points. Tu., Th., 9-11.

- 2. Part II. The second part of the course will be constructive and the student will be given the opportunity to formulate his own working creed. Different types of creed will be studied, such as the Apostle's Creed, the Westminster Confession, the social creed of the churches, etc., and the principles which underlie the making of a creed will be discussed. In this connection the aim will be to secure a formulation of the historical Christian doctrines concerning God, man, sin, salvation, Christ, the church, the life to come, which will be consistent with modern thought and provide a working basis for the life of the modern church. Prof. BROWN and Mr. HOWSON; second semester, four hours weekly.

Four points. Tu., Th., 9-11.

- 12. The Person of Christ. A study of the more important theories of the person of Christ, ancient and modern. The purpose of the course is to give a constructive interpretation of the place of Christ in Christianity and in modern life. The course will be conducted by means of readings, discussions, and papers. Prof. BROWN; second semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. M., 4-6.

- 14. The Christian Doctrine of Salvation, with special reference to the atonement, sacraments, and related doctrines. In connection with the lectures such typical works as Anselm's Cur Deus Homo, Grotius' De Satisfactione Christi, and Bushnell's The Vicarious Sacrifice, will be read and discussed. Prof. BROWN; second semester, two hours weekly.

[Not given in 1925-26.]

- 32. The Theology of Presbyterianism. Informal reading and discussion of selected passages from the Westminster Confession and Catechisms, together with lectures on the sources, history, and present significance of the Westminster theology. Dr. MERRILL; second semester, one hour weekly.

One point. Th., 4.

- 33. Main Currents in Modern Theology. A study of the sources of modern theology in Schleiermacher and Ritschl, and the chief problems which have emerged during the more recent period. Open to graduates and other advanced students. Prof. BROWN; first semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

- 35. Fundamentalism and Modernism. Two religions or two theologies? A study of the issues raised in the recent fundamentalist controversy. The aim of the course will be to distinguish between the theological and the religious aspects of the controversy and to point out their consequences for religious education and the work of the church. Prof. BROWN; first semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

43. The Life of Prayer in a World of Science. Studies in the technique of the devotional life, with special reference to the problems raised for religious faith by contemporary philosophy and psychology. Prof. BROWN; first semester, two hours weekly. M., 4-6.

- 91-92. Seminar. The conception of the supernatural: its psychological basis, the historical forms which it has assumed, its philosophical implications and its present significance for the religious life. Open to advanced students after personal application to the professor. Prof. BROWN and Mr. HOWSON; two hours weekly, throughout the year. Four points. Tu., 4-6.

CHRISTIAN ETHICS

The emphasis of this department is upon the development and application of Christian ethics, particularly in relation to social living. Sufficient attention is paid to historical backgrounds to furnish an adequate approach to this undertaking.

In conjunction with the work offered in religious education and the department of Church and Community, the courses in Christian ethics afford specialized preparation for those purposing to devote themselves particularly to the social function of the church, in the local, denominational, or interdenominational field. To this end students are made acquainted with methods of social study as applied to the work of the ministry.

- 11-12. Development of Ethical Ideals. An analysis of typical periods and movements, tracing the process by which conduct is crystallized into ethical standards and systems, with special reference to the contribution of Christianity. Readings, reports, discussions, lectures. Prof. WARD; two hours weekly throughout the year.

Four points. Tu., Th., 11.

21. Modern Social Movements. A review and estimate of modern social movements from the standpoint of ethical and religious values. Lectures, readings, reports. Prof. WARD; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. Tu., Th., 10.

22. Industrial Problems. What do the social principles of Christianity require in relation to hours and conditions of work, to wages and standards of living, to forms of control for industry? How may these requirements be realized? Lectures, readings, reports. Prof. WARD; second semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

24. Ethical Aspects of the Economic Problem. An analysis of current economic principles and practice: competition, profit, the profit motive, capital, interest, property; an inquiry concerning the ethical solution of the economic problem. Lectures, readings, reports. Prof. WARD; second semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. Tu., Th., 10.

41. Social Teaching of the Bible. A survey of Biblical social ethics. Readings, reports, discussions. Prof. WARD; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
42. The Social Order. The Christian attitude in relation to poverty, disease, vice, crime, war. The Christian concept of the family, the state, economic organization. Current attempts to express the Christian ideal of society. Lectures, readings, reports. Prof. WARD; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
- 51a-52a.* Ethical Viewpoints in Modern Literature. A critique of selected examples from modern essayists, novelists and poets. Readings, discussions, lectures. Prof. WARD; one hour weekly throughout the year. Two points. W., 2.
- 51b-52b.* Ethical Interpretations. An evaluation of current events, in the light of the principles of Christian ethics. Lectures, assigned readings and discussions. Prof. WARD; one hour weekly throughout the year. Two points. W., 3.
- 91-92. Seminar. Proposed solutions of the economic problem; a critical examination of the ethical aspects of capitalism, the various schools of socialism, the co-operative movement, etc. Open to a limited number of advanced students after consultation with the professor. Applicants will be expected to have taken courses 11-12 and 41-42, or their equivalent. Prof. WARD; two hours weekly throughout the year. Four points. Tu., 2-4.

CHRISTIAN INSTITUTIONS

The courses in this department are intended to be both historical and constructive, having to do not only with the origin and development of Christian institutions, but also with their place in the life of the modern world, and with their adaptation to its changing conditions.

Those in church polity are practical in character and deal with the history and polity of the churches represented most largely in the student-body, with the needs of the students belonging respectively to one or another of those churches particularly in mind.

- 11-12. The Church as an Institution. To show the rise and development of the Christian society, and the theories in connection with it at different epochs. The value of institutional as compared with individual religion will be discussed. Prof. JACKSON; two hours weekly throughout the year. Four points.
First semester, W., F., 10. Second semester, W., F., 11.
13. The Christian Sacraments and Ordinances. The origins and ideas of sacraments in religion. The ministry and the rites and ceremonies of the church. Prof. JACKSON; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
26. History of Christian Worship. The principles of public worship from the earliest times; the worship of the synagogue; rise of a distinctively Christian service; the early liturgies; the mass; reformed services; post-reformation devotions; etc. Prof. JACKSON; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. Tu., Th., 12.

* Courses 51a-52a and 51b-52b may be taken separately, or combined to make a two point course for one semester or a four point course for the year.

28. History of Preaching in the Christian Church. Prof. JACKSON; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. Th., 2-4.
35. The Creeds. The rise of dogma and creedal forms; and a general discussion of the value of confessionalism in religion. Prof. JACKSON; first semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
42. The Prayer Book. The origin and growth of the English prayer books and the ideas underlying them. Prof. JACKSON; second semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
- 43-44. Polity and Principles of the Church of England. A sketch of the institution from its origin; its organization and discipline; the differences and parties within and without its pale; modern conditions and developments; expansion; consideration of its position at the present day. RELIGIOUS EDUCATION AND PSYCHOLOGY

The courses in this department are planned for the following purposes: (1) To enable ministers, missionaries, association secretaries and other religious workers, to utilize in all phases of their work the results of experimental psychology and of general and religious educational thought and experience; (2) To provide for those who wish to major in religious education and psychology in such preparation; (3) to give opportunity in this professional preparation for training in the conduct of certain specialized aspects of religious education, such as the church school, young people's work, boys' and girls' clubs, etc.; (4) to provide for the professional preparation of those who wish to take as their life work some form of religious education.

The work of the department is planned in coöperation with Teachers College, Columbia University. The departments of religious education in the two institutions coöperate in the arrangement of the program of studies in religious education from which the students of either institution may elect courses, and use the same for credit in either institution under the general regulations of the institution concerned. This makes available to students of the Seminary who wish to major in religious education, the courses in religious education in the two institutions, and also the varied offerings in Biblical and other subjects given in the Seminary, and the very complete program of courses on the theory and practice of education given in Teachers College.

The courses in the department are closely related to supervised field work, thus enabling theory to be joined with practice in an effective manner. The field work in the Seminary is under the supervision of the department of field work with the coöperation of the department of religious education. There is also available the supervised field work of Teachers College, under the direction of its department of religious education.

The Union School of Religion is maintained by the Seminary and administered by the department with the following purposes: 1. To be of service to the community by providing a school of religion for the children and youth who wish to enroll; 2. to give opportunity for the discovery of efficient methods of religious education, thus making available a body of experience that shall be at the disposal of the students in the department and other workers in religious education; 3. to furnish opportunities to the students of the department and visitors from other church schools to observe the operation of the school. At its Sunday morning sessions, which begin at 9:30, opportunity is given for observation of the school worship and the class sessions. The school consists of Prof. Elliott, supervisor, Mr. Ralph P. Bridgman, principal, a staff of 25 teachers and officers, and about 250 pupils. The classes are in charge of either professional teachers or of graduate students who are in training at the Seminary or at Teachers College. A circular descriptive of the school and its methods may be secured by application to the office of the school.

The work of the department is facilitated by a special working library of moral and religious education kept in a separate room in the Seminary library.

For the relation of religious education to preparation for missionary work, see the announcement of the department of Foreign Service.

Those who major in religious education may look toward the B.D., S.T.M., and Th.D. from the Seminary, or through the arrangement of the Seminary with Teachers College, toward the M.A. and Ph.D. in education from Columbia University. Academic arrangements with the University make it possible to combine work for degrees from both the Seminary and Columbia University under advantageous conditions. For details concerning degrees, see above, pages 51-59.

The courses in Teachers College, Columbia University, in religious education, together with the courses in educational philosophy and psychology most essential to the preparation of the religious worker are included at the appropriate places in the following outline of courses. The Seminary will pay out of the tuition fee of $150 for these courses up to four points per year, when they are elected by regular students to count toward the B.D. degree and when students are recommended by the department of religious education and psychology to take such courses as supplementary to the work of the Seminary. Additional work in Teachers College will not be paid for by the Seminary, but may be elected as a part of the student's program for the B.D. degree, upon the recommendation of the head of the department and upon the vote of the committee on religious education, when the department considers such additional work essential to the student's preparation in religious education looking to the B.D. degree. Any of these courses may be elected as a part of the sixteen points required to be taken in Teachers College toward the M.A. degree, but when elected for this purpose such courses may not be credited toward the B.D. degree and must be paid for in addition to the regular Seminary tuition fee at the regular rate of ten dollars per point. These courses are also among those which may be elected by Seminary students registered for the Ph.D. degree in education from Columbia University.

11-12. General Introduction. The department of religious education and psychology coöperates with several other departments of the Seminary in the conduct of this general introductory course. It will form a general introduction to the student's professional preparation for his work as minister, missionary, religious education director, association secretary or other religious worker. For full description, see General Introduction 1-2. Professors BROWN, ROSS, WHITE, ELLIOTT, Mr. SWIFT, Mr. BUSCH, Mr. HOWSON and Mr. MICHAELIDES; four hours of class and committee weekly throughout the year, eight hours of practice and observation work on the field. Ten points. W., F., 11-1.

21-22. The Educational Approach to Religious Leadership. This course considers, from the viewpoint of religious education, the functions common to all types and fields of religious leadership, such functions as teaching, administration, supervision and training of workers, developing programs and curricula, personal counsel, and the conduct of worship. This course is directly related to practice work and these functions will be considered from the viewpoint of the religious leader at his task. The class will meet by committees for part of the time; first, to consider the problems arising in the field work; and second, for consideration of the discussions of the main class in their application to such work as that of ministers, directors of religious education, and association secretaries in city, country, or foreign field. Special aspects of religious work, such as the church school, young people's societies, week-day religious education will be discussed as the interest of the class may demand. The best experience available in method, development of curricula, supervision, etc., will be made available through observation-visits, special lectures, and readings. It is expected that the members of the class will be engaged in field work of a more inclusive type than that in connection with Religious Education 11-12, such as pastor's assistant, director of young people's work, assistant boys' work director, club work director. One point credit will be allowed for the field work in connection with this course, if the type of work is approved and provided it is carried on under supervision. More advanced students who have not previously received remuneration for field work may secure regular compensation for such work on the recommendation of the instructors and on the approval of the Director of Field Work. Those not engaged in field work who wish to enroll for the class and committee sessions will be admitted only by arrangement with the instructors. Prof. ELLIOTT and Mr. BRIDGMAN; three hours weekly throughout the year. Eight points (six for class and committee and two for field work.) Tu., 2-4 and committee hour to be arranged.

Education 243E. Principles of Religious Education. Prof. COE and Mr. MACLEAN; first semester, two hours weekly. Given in Teachers College. Three points. Tu., Th., 11.

Education 243F-244F. Professional Leadership in Religious Education. Prof. CASE and specialists; four hours weekly throughout the year. Given in Teachers College. Eight points. Tu., Th., 2-4.

23. The Democratic Process: Group Thinking and Worship. This course considers critically the process of group thinking and worship as a possible process for securing the democratic participation of the rank and file of people in the decisions of life—the program of a church, community movements, political questions, the determining of social and economic standards and the formulating of personal beliefs. Attention is given to developing skill in this method. Prerequisite, one of the introductory courses. Prof. ELLIOTT; first semester, two hours class and one hour committee.

Three points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

24. Work with Individuals. This course considers aims and methods of work with individuals. How the worker with boys and girls, young people and adults may help individuals personally is discussed. There is an examination of current methods, such as "personal work," the confessional, vocational counsel, personal interviews, charting. The work of the psychologist and psychiatrist is discussed so that the religious worker may learn from the methods and viewpoint of these experts in mental difficulties and be able to cooperate with them. Open only to advanced students. Prof. ELLIOTT; second semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. Th., 2-4.

24x. Case Study of Character Problems of Children and Adults. This hour for consultation is open only to a limited number of advanced students who are taking or have taken Religious Education 24 and who wish to give special attention to difficult problems of personal adjustment and to helping emotionally unstable children or adults. It is expected that those who enroll for these conferences have definite cases of this sort, in connection with their work in the field, concerning whom they wish counsel. Admission by permission of the instructor. Specialists in emotional difficulties will be available for the conference hour as the cases considered demand. Prof. ELLIOTT; second semester, one hour weekly.

Two points. Th., 4-6.

Education 307F. Clinical Psychology. Prof. L. S. HOLLINGWORTH; first semester, two hours weekly.
Given in Teachers College. Three points. F., 4:10-6.

Education 208F. Mental Adjustments. Prof. L. S. HOLLINGWORTH; second semester, two hours weekly.
Given in Teachers College. Three points. F., 4:10-6.

Education 203V-204V. Philosophy of Education. Prof. KILPATRICK; two hours weekly throughout the year.
Given in Teachers College. Four points. Section III; W., F., 3:10.
Section IV; M., F., 9:00.

Education 303V-304V. Philosophy of Education. Prof. KILPATRICK; two hours weekly throughout the year.
Given in Teachers College. Eight points. M., F., 9.

Education 303R-304R. Research Course in the Philosophy of Education. Problems of educational procedure will be studied in the light of principles underlying the educative process. Open to those receiving permission of the instructor. Education 203V-204V, or the equivalent, is a prerequisite. This course is given in Teachers College but is included in the offering of religious education in the Seminary and may be counted in the residence requirements of students. The Seminary will pay from the regular tuition the fee for two points each semester when this is taken as a Seminary course. Prof. KILPATRICK; two hours weekly throughout the year.
Given in Teachers College. Eight points. M., 3:10-5:00.

Education 343R. A Research Course in the Philosophy of Religious Education. Prof. COE; first semester, two hours weekly.
Given in Teachers College. Four points. M., 10-11:50.

33. The Use of Stories, Drama, Art, and Music in Religious Education. This is an advanced course and is intended for those who wish to give more thorough consideration than is possible in one of the introductory courses to the place of stories, drama, art and music in worship, instruction and recreation for children and young people. Contributions will be made by experts in specialized fields.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

The Study and Teaching of the English Bible. See English Bible 25-26. Dr. CURRY.

Education 243K-244K. The Use of the Bible in Religious Education. Prof. CASE; two hours weekly throughout the year.
Given in Teachers College. Four points. W., F., 11.

35-36. Experimental Research in Religious Education. This course offers to advanced students opportunity to plan and to carry out in field situations scientific experimentation in the development of curricula from the project point of view, and in the administration of religious work on new educational bases. The best available techniques for evaluation and measurement will be studied and some new forms developed. Prerequisite, Religious Education 21-22 or equivalent. Students whose background of psychological preparation is adequate may receive permission from the instructor to carry on research in the adjustment of individuals, supplementing this course during the second semester by Religious Education 24x. Dr. WATSON; two hours weekly throughout the year.

Six points. Th., 9-11.

Education 343R2-344R2. Research in Character Education. Dr. HARTSHORNE and Dr. MAY; two hours weekly throughout the year. Given in Teachers College. Six points. M., 1:10-3:00.

41. Boys' and Girls' Clubs. This course presupposes the consideration of boys' and girls' club work in one of the introductory courses and is intended for those who wish to give special attention to the skill and problems involved in the leadership of boys and girls in clubs and camps. There is opportunity for acquiring facility in the development of programs by self-governing classes or clubs. Leaders in the development of national programs will participate in the discussions from time to time. Mr. BUSCH; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. M., 2-4.

42. Special Problems of Workers with Young People. Modern tendencies among young people, including changes in their attitudes and demands, are considered. Prerequisite or parallel, one of the introductory courses. Mr. BRIDGMAN and Mr. BUSCH; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. M., 2-4.

43. Professional Problems of Association Secretaries. This course is offered to give secretaries of young men's and young women's Christian associations, who are studying in the Seminary or Teachers College, opportunity to consider the specialized problems of these organizations. This is an advanced course open only to those who have taken or are taking one of the introductory courses in religious education. Leaders in association work will participate in the course. Prof. ELLIOTT; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

44. Specialized Problems of Workers with Students. This course considers problems peculiar to voluntary religious work with students. Special attention is given to meeting the moral and religious problems of students and to building up religious work on a democratic basis. Prof. ELLIOTT; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. Tu., 4-6.

61. The Psychological Approach to Religious Work. Those advances in modern psychology which the minister should know as affecting his work are considered, such as how character is formed and reformed, how one personality influences another, results of recent study of the emotions, psychological processes involved in various types of religious experience. Prof. ELLIOTT; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

Education 243I. The Psychological Approach to Religion. Prof. COE; first semester, two hours weekly. Given in Teachers College. Two points. M., 3:10-5:00.

Education 207A. Educational Psychology. Prof. PINTER, Mr. WATSON and Mr. SPENCE; first semester, three hours weekly. Given in Teachers College. Three points. M., W., F., 9.

For other courses in psychology, including advanced educational psychology, psychology of childhood and of adolescence, tests, measurements and experimentation in education, see Announcement of Teachers College, Columbia University, pp. 28-34.

62. Psychology of Religious Experience. The more typical forms of religious experience such as belief in God, prayer, conversion, worship, communion, and mysticism, will be considered. The purpose is to reach a better understanding of these religious experiences by considering them psychologically. Prof. ELLIOTT and Mr. HOWSON; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. W., 2-4.
- 65-66. The Psychology of Theism: A scientific approach to religion and its implications for the devotional life. Mr. HOWSON; two hours weekly throughout the year. (Identical with Philosophy of Religion 15-16.) Two points. W., F., 9.
72. History of Christian Education. The development of educational ideals and methods within organized Christianity up to the beginning of the present reform movement in religious education. Dr. ROCKWELL; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
83. Practicum: The implications in modern educational principles for missionary work. This course is intended primarily for returned missionaries, but a limited number of those who expect to go abroad for the first time may be admitted. The course will be built about discussions of actual situations in work abroad, supplemented by lectures and readings. The aim will be to discover in what ways experimental psychology and the newer educational theory and practice affect missionary work. (Identical with Foreign Service 31.) Profs. FLEMING and ELLIOTT; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. Th., 2-4.
- 91-92. Seminar in Religious Education and Psychology. The seminar is provided for those advanced students who wish to work on specialized problems. Provision will also be made for coöperation in the work on theses for the various degrees for those majoring in religious education and psychology. Prof. ELLIOTT and Mr. BRIDGMAN; two hours weekly throughout the year. Four points. First semester, W., 1-3. Second semester, W., 12-2.

PRACTICAL THEOLOGY

a. HOMILETICS

The courses in homiletics give opportunity for consecutive study of the theory and practice of preaching, and enable graduates to specialize in the subject. The earlier courses apply the principles of preaching to the making of sermons; the later combine a history of preaching with an inquiry into methods, and deal with the relation of preaching to the spiritual life of the minister. At the same time there are practical exercises in the development of sermonic themes and in the private criticism of sermons. In all of these branches special effort is made to inculcate an intelligent, thorough, and reverent use of the Bible as the basis of Christian preaching.

Students who feel the need of further instruction in English than is provided in the regular courses are urged to seek the advice of the instructor in English who will arrange with them for such additional work as may be expedient.

The development and right use of the voice are regarded as closely related to homiletical training; a statement as to the provision made for vocal culture will be found below.

1-2. English Composition in Preparation for Sermon-writing.

Short themes and sermons considered primarily in relation to style and structure; assigned reading in the theory of composition; monthly conferences for discussion of the work submitted. The course extends throughout an entire year, but may be begun at the opening of either semester. Dr. NASON; hours by private appointment.

One point.

3-4. Private Criticism of Sermons. The preparation of one written sermon each semester, and a half hour's conference on its style and structure. Dr. NASON; hours by private appointment.

One point.

9-10. Advanced English Composition: Historical Research and the Preparation of Theses. Lectures and exercises (1) on the gathering, evaluation, and synthesizing of material, including a discussion of bibliography, external and internal criticism, the establishment of particular facts, constructive reasoning, and historical generalization; and (2) on the presentation of this material, including a discussion of organization, the writing of the thesis, the preparation of the manuscript for submission, and the editing and proof-reading incident to publication. Primarily for graduates and other advanced students. Dr. NASON; one hour weekly throughout the year.

Two points. M., 3.

11. The Preacher in Relation to the Bible, the Church and the World. A course designed to give to the student entering the Seminary with a view to the pastorate a preliminary conception of his task, of the content of his message and of the conditions of its delivery. Prerequisite for all drill courses in sermon-construction. Prof. ROSS; first semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. Tu., Th., 11.

12. Sermon Outlines. A course designed to give a drill in the fundamental principles of sermon-construction. Prof. ROSS; second semester, one hour weekly. Open only to those who have had Practical Theology 11. For first year students.

One point. Two sections. Th., 2 or F., 3.

13. Brief Sermons. The preparation and delivery of short sermons upon assigned themes, with criticism by the instructor and class. Profs. COFFIN and ROSS; first semester, one hour weekly. Open only to those who have had Practical Theology 11 and 12 or their equivalent. Primarily for second year students.

One point. Two sections. F., 3.

15. Brief Sermons. The preparation and delivery of short sermons upon assigned themes, with criticism by the instructor and class. Primarily for seniors. Prof. BLACK; first semester, one hour weekly.

One point. [Not given in 1925-26.]*

16. Brief Sermons. The preparation and delivery of short sermons upon assigned themes, with criticism by the instructor. Primarily for seniors. Prof. FOSDICK; second semester, one hour weekly.

One point. [Not given in 1925-26.]*

*On account of absence on sabbatical leave.

18. Brief Sermons. The preparation and delivery of short sermons upon assigned themes, with criticism by the instructor. Dr. MOLDENHAWER;† second semester, one hour weekly.
One point. Two sections, Tu., 11 or W., 11.
22. The Content of the Preacher's Message. Lectures and discussions of the central doctrines of Christianity as the reflections of the vital experience of Christians. Dr. MOLDENHAWER;† second semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. Tu., 2-4.
101. Expository Preaching: Old Testament. Lectures and practical exercises. Prof. BLACK; first semester, two hours weekly. For graduates and advanced students. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]*
103. Expository Preaching: New Testament. Lectures and practical exercises. Prof. BLACK; first semester, two hours weekly. For graduates and advanced students.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]*
105. Preaching of Doctrine. Lectures and practical exercises. Prof. BLACK; first semester, two hours weekly. For graduates and advanced students. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]*
107. Preaching of Doctrine (Continuation). Lectures and practical exercises. Prof. BLACK; first semester, two hours weekly. For graduates and advanced students.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]*

b. PASTORAL THEOLOGY

51. Parish Problems: Conferences upon such subjects as pastoral visitation, methods of church finance and benevolence, the church's work for men, for young people, for children, the pastor and social problems, the church and social classes, church discipline, etc. Prof. COFFIN; first semester, one hour weekly. One point. F., 2.
54. Public Worship: A practical course in the principles and methods of public worship, including the administration of the sacraments and special services, with weekly exercises in the composition of public prayers. Prof. COFFIN; second semester, two hours weekly, after March 12. One point. F., 2-4.
56. Life in the Ministry. Conversations on various aspects of the ministerial life and its organization, e. g., the minister and the devotional life, the minister and general culture, the work of the spiritual counsellor, etc. Prof. ROSS; second semester, one hour weekly. One point. Th., 8 p. m.

FOREIGN SERVICE

The courses enumerated below are specifically missionary in character. Other fundamental courses, essential to ensure that the missionary message shall be thoroughly informed and wisely effective, are described under the foregoing departments of Seminary instruction. Students may also have the advantages arising from contact with the several boards of foreign missions located in New York, and with other missionary agencies such as the Student Volunteer Movement, and the foreign departments of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations. Each year there are in attendance at the Seminary, at Columbia University, and at Teachers College from 130 to 200 missionaries on furlough and student volunteers, and at the University over nine hundred foreign students. International House, with exceptional accommodations and facilities for foreign students, is two blocks away. Unusual opportunity is thus afforded for stimulating contacts through various organizations, and through social or discussion clubs made up of those who are interested in a given country. Students also have opportunity to observe the equipment and actual working of agencies and institutions for social and religious betterment. Students may study for the degree of Master of Theology, specializing in missions, or by an arrangement with Teachers College they may study for the degrees of M.A. or Ph.D. in connection with the Department of Religious Education, specializing in missions.

a. COURSES FOR THE HOME PASTOR

For those going into the pastorate or other form of service in America, courses 11 and 12, continuing two hours weekly throughout the year, are especially advised. For such students course 19 also is suitable.

b. THEORY AND PRINCIPLES OF MISSIONS

11. The Philosophy of Missions. The tendency toward world unity, the relation of Christianity to world problems, the nature and function of the Christian church in relation to her world task, the modern aim, motives, and justification for missions, the missionary message of the Bible, the development of Christian international mindedness in individual and in church. Lectures, discussions, readings. Prof. FLEMING; first semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. M., W., 12.

12. The World Task of the Church. The aim of this course is to give a vivid realization of the most essential aspects of the Christian enterprise; the conditions, problems, aims, and agencies of the work will be treated in such a way as to afford a background for further missionary thinking. This course is intended for those who do not expect to go abroad for service. Lectures, discussions, readings. Prof. FLEMING; second semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. M., W., 12.

- 13-14. Mission Principles and Methods. The accumulation of experience in the mission enterprise is making increasingly possible the formulation of outstanding principles and methods for future guidance. It is the object of this course to discuss and to systematize the results of this experience in connection with such subjects as denationalization, the sublimation of non-Christian customs, the establishment of Christian institutions, the introduction of Christian principles into life, devolution in mission administration, the application of educational principles to missions, union, coöperation, etc. Lectures, discussions, readings. Prof. FLEMING; two hours weekly throughout the year. Four points. Tu., Th., 11.

16. Professional Aspects of Foreign Service. The object of this course is to make available to students of missions some of the accumulated experience gained by experts located in or about New York in connection with the various boards of foreign missions and other missionary organizations. The course will consist of a series of lectures by specialists in the foreign missionary enterprise. No readings. Prof. FLEMING; second semester, one hour weekly.
One point. M., 11.
19. Problems of Racial Contact. A study of conditions of interracial tension and of certain psychological aspects of society, such as relative racial capacity, race prejudice, race attitudes, social isolation, crisis, accommodation and control. The special object of the course is to develop attitudes, insights, and appreciations looking toward an intelligent, sympathetic, and effective approach to other races and civilizations. Lectures, discussions, readings. Prof. FLEMING; first semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. M., W., 3.
26. Social Institutions and Organization. For discussion and reports based on visits to institutional churches, settlements and other institutions concerned with community health, recreation, and education in New York, with the opportunities of similar work abroad in mind. Profs. WHITE, FLEMING and Mr. SWIFT; second semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
31. Practicum. The implications in modern educational principles for missionary work. This course is intended primarily for returned missionaries, but a limited number of those who expect to go abroad for the first time may be admitted. The course will be built about discussions of actual situations in work abroad, supplemented by lectures and readings. The aim will be to discover in what ways experimental psychology and the newer educational theory and practice affect missionary work. Profs. FLEMING and ELLIOTT; first semester, two hours weekly.
Two points. Th., 2-4.
92. Seminar. Selected problems of modern missions are taken up for intensive treatment, with the object of formulating contributions to the body of scholarly and constructive thought on missionary principles and practice. The special interests of the group will be taken into consideration in planning the work. Open to a limited number of students after application to the instructor. Prof. FLEMING; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. W., 10-12.

c. EDUCATIONAL MISSIONS

With reference to foreign missionaries intending actually to engage in educational work, an overwhelming body of testimony from leaders on the field and at home shows that they should be thoroughly trained as teachers before they go out.

The Bulletin of Teachers College, to be obtained from the secretary of Columbia University, contains information with reference to more than one hundred and fifty courses on the general theory and practice of education to be obtained there. Particular attention is called to these departments: history of education; educational psychology; child study; theory and practice of teaching; and educational administration. The attention of students interested in missionary education is especially called to the diploma offered by Teachers College: "Teacher and Supervisor of Foreign Schools." The following courses in education, given in Teachers College bear particularly on work abroad.

Education 243N-244N. Problems in Missionary Education. Dr. SAILER.

Education 209M-210M. Fundamental Course for Students and Teachers from foreign lands. Profs. W. F. RUSSELL, MONROE, KANDEL, and others.

Education 209E-210E. Visitation and Observation of Schools and School Practice. Profs. WILSON, KANDEL, RUSSELL, and others.

Education 210F. Rural and Village Education for Students from foreign lands. Profs. DUNN and CARNEY.

d. RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Among modern requirements for missionary preparation, a knowledge of the principles and methods of religious education is of prime importance. Such training is necessary, not only that the missionary himself may be able to impart Christianity effectively, but that he may mediate to the people among whom he works the best principles, methods, and standards as examples for their use. Special value will be derived not only from a study of the psychology of religion and the theory of religious education, but also from a thorough study of the Sunday school, its principles, methods, and practice. For particulars with reference to this phase of missionary preparation, see the department of Religious Education.

e. PHONETICS

While the consensus of opinion is that most living languages may be learned best after reaching the field, yet there is general agreement that a course in phonetics, in preparation for further language study, should be taken before departure. Missionaries on furlough as well as those who are expecting to teach English have found such a course invaluable.

32. Phonetics and Linguistics. On the basis of an analysis of English speech-sounds, principles will be deduced which will be applied to the special language problems of the fields in which the members of the class are interested. An illustration of a scientific and effective language method applicable to personal study and teaching will also be given. One point. [Not given in 1925-26.]

Education 140F. Methods of Teaching English to Foreigners. (Teachers College.)

f. HISTORY OF MISSIONS

42. History of Christian Missions, from the first to the eighteenth century. Prof. MCGIFFERT; second semester, two hours weekly. (Identical with Church History 10.) Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]
44. History of Modern Christian Missions. Modern missions in the various differentiated world areas will be studied with reference to their development, deficiencies, attainments, and the significance of outstanding personalities. Prof. FLEMING; second semester, two hours weekly. Two points. M., W., 3.

g. MISSION FIELDS

(1) China and Japan

52. Problems of modern missions in China. A study of the present social and religious situations in China; attitude to native customs and practices, the establishment of the native church, problems connected with naturalizing Christianity, social adjustment, the intellectual awakening, eclectic movements, and certain aspects of the message. Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

Buddhism, and Chinese Religions. See History of Religions.

Columbia University Courses

Columbia University offers the following courses: History of Chinese Art, History of the development of Chinese civilization; under Prof. HODOUS, Religion in modern China, Development of Chinese thought; under Mr. CHENG, courses on the Chinese language, both the spoken language (Juo Yü), and the classical language (Wen Li); and under Professor PELLIOU, of the Collège de France, Methods of Research in Chinese Sources. (See Bulletin of Ancient and Oriental Languages.) Extension courses are also given in the Japanese language, and in Japanese history and culture.

(2) India and Persia

62. Modern Missions in India. A study of India including its literary, aesthetic, and institutional heritage; its needs; the Indian church; mass movements; and especially the modern problems and methods of the missionary enterprise in that land. Prof. FLEMING; second semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

Hinduism. See History of Religions.

Religions of India. See History of Religions.

Columbia University Courses

Prof. A. V. WILLIAMS JACKSON offers two courses in the Sanskrit language; one in Avestan, one in the literature of India and Persia, alternating with the history of India and Persia, and conducts seminar work in Indo-Iranian. Provision is made for Pali, Pahlavi, Old Persian, Modern Persian, Armenian and Turkish. See the Bulletin of Ancient and Oriental Languages and Literature.

(3) Moslem Lands

Columbia University Courses

Columbia University offers four courses in Arabic, and five in Syriac under Prof. R. J. H. GOTTHEIL; courses in Turkish, Coptic, Ethiopic, Armenian and modern Persian; courses on the Rise of Arabic Civilization and the Spread of Mohammedanism; and the Political and Social Evolution of Modern Turkey and Egypt, by Prof. GOTTHEIL; the Ancient History of Western Asia from the earliest times until the period of Cyrus the Persian, by Dr. KRAELING; and Mohammedan Law, with special reference to its political and social aspects, by Dr. AGHNIDES. See Bulletin of Ancient and Oriental Languages and Literature.

Library Facilities. The New York Public Library has an extensive collection of books and manuscripts on Arabia and the Arabs, Arabic poetry, Mohammedan Law and Mohammedanism.

(4) Latin-America

83. Evangelical Missions in Latin-America. This course deals with problems which the present day foreign missionary meets in Latin-America, against a background of a new national consciousness, new social movements and economic struggle. It treats particularly the present status of the evangelical and Roman Catholic Churches, religious conditions among certain important classes such as students, the labor element and primitive Indians, and points out the problems of coöperation and unity facing the evangelical forces. Students should, if possible, supplement this course with the one given by the same instructor at Columbia University on Pan-American Relations, Public Law 6177. Dr. INMAN;* first semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

Columbia University Courses

Columbia University offers courses on the Spanish language and literature, on Spanish-American literature; and on the history and civilization of Hispanic America, by Prof. W. R. SHEPHERD. See Bulletin of History, Economics and Public Law.

Library Facilities. The library of the Hispanic Society of America, with its large collections on the history and civilization of Spain and Portugal, and on the history and development of Spanish-speaking countries, is available.

h. PRACTICAL ARTS

Instruction in hygiene, sanitation, nursing, household and industrial arts, business methods, etc., is given in the School of Practical Arts, Teachers College. The Bulletin will be sent on application to the Secretary of Columbia University.

THE CHURCH AND THE COMMUNITY

The aim of this department is primarily to meet the increased demand that pastors and other religious workers shall be acquainted with community life and able to lead the church in taking its part in community endeavor in relation to other agencies, and to provide instruction and practical experience for those who wish to specialize along this line.

Attention is called to the advantages offered in the city of New York for contact with the boards of various denominations and with the headquarters of national organizations for the advancement of industrial and social conditions. The city also offers unusual opportunities for observing and taking part in the work of agencies of many types of social and religious betterment. Practical experience in work of this kind may be arranged through the director of field work.

In connection with the Department of Field Work, a limited number of students preparing for rural church work may obtain supervised field work in rural and small town communities within a reasonable distance of New York. They will be required to take General Introduction 1-2 during the first semester, meeting one hour weekly for conference with the supervisor of rural work. During the second semester they will take course 14, offered by Mr. Felton, enrollment in General Introduction 1-2 for the second semester being optional. A credit of one point for field work will be allowed each semester, in connection with General Introduction 1-2 and course 14 respectively. Regularly enrolled students who have not previously received remuneration for field work are eligible to receive a compensation of $400 in connection with rural field work, upon recommendation by the professor in charge and with the approval of the director of field work. This arrangement, together with the courses offered at Teachers College in rural education, sociology and economics (see listings below), affords ample opportunity for training in this field.

Courses given in the department and those bearing directly on problems of the church and the community, are as follows:

1-2. General Introduction. The department of The Church and the Community will coöperate with several other departments in a general course in introduction, which is fully described under General Introduction 1-2.

11. The Church and the City Problem. This course traces the development of religious work in city communities, with special reference to city mission work. The institutional church, the Christian neighborhood house, the social settlement and other efforts to interpret the Christian way of life, are studied, as well as the movement for local church federation. Experienced pastors and other religious workers are invited to lead class discussions and visits are made to representative institutional churches and settlements. Prof. WHITE; first semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. W., F., 9.

12. The Church's Responsibility in Relation to Social Work. Class discussions of problems in the social field with which the pastor is increasingly called upon to deal. Among the topics considered are problems of family welfare, child helping, juvenile delinquency, social aspects of public health work, and in general the question of coöperation between the local church and the social agencies of the community. Occasional lectures from social workers and visits to some of the societies working in the fields studied. The course is designed primarily for pastors and other religious workers, whose practical experience will furnish material for class discussions, but others may be admitted. Prof. WHITE; second semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

13. Rural Field Work Conference. Dr. BRUNNER.*

Two points. M., 6 p. m.

14. The Church and Rural Life. This course will discuss the recent changes in rural life as they apply to the church and will undertake to formulate by discussion a modern rural church program. Such subjects will be discussed as the recent coöperative movement among farmers and its religious significance; the reasons for farmer-political movements such as the Non-partisan League, the Farmers Union, and the Agricultural Bloc; the Farm Bureau Movement organized on the county-wide basis in the 2400 counties and its effect upon the small competitive rural churches; the improved state and county highways and the increased use of the automobile and their effect upon enlarging parish boundaries and consolidating churches; and the invasion of foreign speaking peoples into rural communities and the opportunities they present to the rural churches. An extension program for the town and village church will be discussed and the program of the rural departments of some of the denominations will be studied. The course will discuss problems of pastoral work in county seat towns as well as in village and country churches. For opportunities for field work in connection with this course, see above. Mr. FELTON;† second semester, two hours weekly.

Two points (and one additional point for field work.) M., 2-4.

22. National Organizations for Social Welfare. Every pastor is called upon to deal with persons who need help either because of emotional disturbances, manifesting themselves in religious depression and abnormal behavior, or because of physical illness. Social or industrial situations in many communities demand the formation of public opinion and often legislative action, if they are to be adequately treated. Not every pastor knows at once where to turn for help under such conditions. It is the purpose of this course to furnish a knowledge of some of the resources, both national and local, of which he may avail himself. As New York is the headquarters of most of the national organizations for social and industrial welfare, the opportunity of studying their work here is unique. The executives of some of the organizations, such as the Committee on Mental Hygiene, the American Social Hygiene Association, and the Child Health Organization of America, will be called in for special lectures and the class will visit the offices of a selected number of the associations, where the aims and methods of work will be explained. There will be one class session weekly and Friday afternoon after 3:30 p. m. must be kept free for visits. Prof. White; second semester, one hour weekly and weekly visits.

Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

31. Problems of Racial Contact. (Identical with Foreign Service 19.) Prof. FLEMING; first semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. M., W., 3.

- 43-44. Social Analysis of Community Problems. This is a basic course, offering practical acquaintance with typical social conditions as they exist in New York. The class will discuss the problems that emerge from their observation and study of housing and family life in the tenements, public education and free and commercialized recreation, and the possible means of improving these conditions and solving these problems. Visits will be made to tenement houses, public schools, theatres and dance halls, parks and playgrounds, and other places of public interest. Mr. SWIFT; two hours weekly throughout the year. Four points. Th., 4-6.

Through the Seminary's relations with Columbia University, Teachers College, New York University, and the New York School of Social Work, properly accredited students of the Seminary may take certain courses given in these institutions. Their departmental bulletins should be consulted.

Attention is directed to the following courses offered at Teachers College in subjects closely related to the work of this department:

Education 245U-246U. Problems in rural education and country life. Profs. CARNEY, DUNN, WOOD, and others.

Two points each session. W., 7:30-9:20 p. m.

Education 205F-206F. Rural sociology and economics. Profs. KULP, CARNEY, and others.

Two points each session. F., 1:10-3.

Education 244H. Practicum. Problems of the church community centre. Miss CASE; second semester.

Four points. W., 1:10-3.

FIELD WORK

By an arrangement with the Churches and other institutions concerned, any regularly enrolled student who is a candidate for the bachelor's degree is assured of one year of supervised field work with remuneration of $400, upon condition that he is not otherwise compensated for this or other work and that his field work is performed to the satisfaction of the Department of Field Work. Any regularly enrolled student who is a candidate for a higher degree (M.A., Ph.D., S.T.M., Th.D.) who has not previously received remuneration for field work is eligible to elect an advanced course in supervised field work for one year with a remuneration of $400 (to the limit of available funds) upon the recommendation of the department under whose direction he is seeking such degree and upon condition that his field work is performed to the satisfaction of that department and of the Department of Field Work.

Students who desire to register for either course should so inform the director of field work in advance of the opening of the academic year.

- 1-2. Students desiring to take only field work and not the combined course listed below, may do so by special arrangement. The course will require eight hours of field work and one hour of class conference work weekly throughout the year. Mr. SWIFT, Mr. BUSCH, and Mr. MICHAELIDES.

Four points. Conference hours to be arranged.

- 1A-2A. General Introduction. This is an introductory, prevocational course and aims to acquaint the student at first hand with the various problems involved in religious work. It is organized around the supervised field work carried on by members of the class. In consultation with the director of field work, the student chooses the type of centre best suited to his needs. The field work consists primarily in the leadership of boys' clubs or of young people's societies, because this kind of activity is specific enough to insure observable results in the course of a year, and because it opens up the most typical problems. Each student is visited on the field frequently by members of the staff.

The course includes, each week throughout the academic year, eight hours of practice work on the field, exclusive of time spent in preparation and travel, and four hours of class and committee sessions. For fuller description of the latter, see General Introduction 1-2.

Students who are not engaged in supervised field work will be admitted only by special arrangement with the instructors. Profs. BROWN, ROSS, WHITE, ELLIOTT, Mr. SWIFT, Mr. BUSCH, Mr. HOWSON and Mr. MICHAELIDES, with the coöperation of other members of the Faculty; four hours weekly throughout the year.

Ten points. W., F., 11-1.

- 3-4. Advanced Course, offering specialized training for the higher degrees (M.A., Ph.D., S.T.M., Th.D.). Students who are registered for this course are under the joint control and supervision of the department of field work and of the department under which the student is seeking a degree. This advanced course is open ordinarily only to those who have completed satisfactorily course 1-2 or 1A-2A. Students desiring to register for this course should consult the professor in charge of the department under which they are seeking a degree and the director of field work in advance of the opening of the academic year. Fields and hours of practice work are determined jointly by the director of field work and the appropriate department. Credit for this course is given in the department of the student's specialization, one point additional credit being allowed each semester for the field work.

PUBLIC SPEAKING AND VOCAL INTERPRETATION

The work of this department is under the direction of Mr. CARMODY. Its aim is to develop the voice, teach its control, and study its use as a medium of self-expression and vocal interpretation.

Each student who desires to take work in this department, will be expected on entering the Seminary to deliver an address of his own composition not exceeding ten minutes in length, and to read aloud a passage from the Bible. This test will be conducted by Mr. CARMODY and will determine which, if any, of the following courses the student will be deemed to have satisfied. Reasonable opportunity will be afforded each student for studying the passage of Scripture on which his final interpretation will be tested. The address may be delivered with or without manuscript.

- 11-12. Vocal Training. Lectures on the principles governing the right use of the voice, with systematic exercises for the development of correct tone production; open tones, enunciation and gesture; vocal technique and the mechanics of expression. The members of this class will receive assistance individually or in small divisions classified according to needs. Such assistance will be given at hours arranged to suit the convenience of student and instructor. Mr. CARMODY and Mr. HARRIS; lectures one hour weekly throughout the year.

One point. First semester, Th., 2. Second semester, Th., 3.

- 13-14. Vocal Dynamics and Poise. Weekly talks on simple topics, not to exceed five minutes in length. No talk will be deemed satisfactory unless the instructor and students seated in the back of the room can, if required, give the substance thereof at its conclusion. Lectures on position, gesture and movement. Mannerisms pointed out and corrected. This course is limited to fifteen students, but will be given in sections if necessary.

Delivery of Short Sermons and Addresses. Directness, conversational style, and sincerity will be insisted upon. The delivery must disclose a clear desire to communicate the thought, and a confidential relationship between speaker and audience must be secured. Frequent assignments. Mr. HALLIDAY; one hour weekly throughout the year. One point. M., 4.

- 15-16. Voice Modulation: Principles and Practice. Inductive studies in the nature of delivery. Analysis of selections from the classic orators and dramatists, such as Demosthenes, Burke, Webster, Aeschylus and Shakespere, to determine the variation in quality, force, pitch, and time required for their effective vocal expression and the factors governing this variation. Accuracy, intelligence and flexibility in tone production are the aims. Mr. HARRIS.

One point. First semester, Th., 3. Second semester, Th., 4.

17. Discriminative Vocal Interpretation of the Bible and of Sermons. Lectures on centres of interest, contrasts, coördination and subordination, the argument, paragraphing, pitch emphasis, etc. Analysis and public reading of assigned passages from the Bible and from selected sermons. Mr. CARMODY and Mr. HARRIS; first semester, two hours weekly. One point. Tu., Th., 5.

18. Advanced Course in Vocal Interpretation of the Bible and of Hymns. Continuation of Course 17. Lectures in the oratoric, epic, lyric, and dramatic spirit; analysis and public reading of illustrative passages from the Bible and from hymns. Vocal expression of prayer. Course 17 a prerequisite. Mr. CARMODY and Mr. HARRIS; second semester, two hours weekly.

One point. Tu., Th., 5.

19. Auditory Units in Preaching. Gear analysis and sequence; sermonic units developed from the point of view of the person in the pew, and delivered before the class. Weekly assignments. Courses 13, 14, 15 and 16, or their equivalents, are prerequisites. Mr. CARMODY; first semester, two hours weekly. Two points. Tu., Th., 4.

20. Advanced Preaching. Evidence and its probative value in preaching; conviction and persuasion; climax and anticlimax; ranting reactions of the head and the heart. Lectures and practical assignments. The test in this course will be the construction and delivery of a sermon embodying the principles taught. Course 19 is a prerequisite. Limited to twenty students. Mr. CARMODY; second semester, two hours weekly.

Two points. [Not given in 1925-26.]

- 21-22. Personal Drill. This work is adapted to meet the particular needs of the individual. It is open to students who have had or been excused from the preceding courses. Weekly appointments of thirty minutes are given to each. No credit is given for this course. Mr. CARMODY and Mr. HARRIS; hours to be arranged with the instructor.

- 23-24. Seminar in Preaching: A sermon of each of ten great metropolitan preachers of today analyzed for auditory units and gear sequences after hearing the preacher. Comparison of the auditory units and gears used by such preachers with a view to determining their sources of power and the relation between their delivery and their sermon structure. Courses 19 and 20 are prerequisites. Given when requested by a sufficient number of students. Mr. CARMODY. One hour weekly throughout the year. [Not given in 1925-26.]

SACRED MUSIC

The courses in this department are under the direction of Dr. DICKINSON.

- 11-12. Practical. Musical theory, harmony, hymn writing, composition, sight reading, ear training. One point. W., 9.
- 13-14. Musical Appreciation. Historical: the history of the development of all musical forms; great intellectual, social and religious movements as reflected in music; the history of music in the church. Liturgical: music and hymnology. One hour weekly throughout the year. One point. W., 10.
- 15-16. Choir Rehearsal: For daily morning service. One hour weekly throughout the year. W., 4.
- 17-18. Choir Rehearsal: For Sunday service. W., 6.

GENERAL INFORMATION

HISTORICAL STATEMENT

The Union Theological Seminary in the City of New York was founded by a group of Christian ministers and laymen of the Presbyterian Church who believed that it was wise to plant a training school for ministers in a great city. They met first October 10, 1835, and, after three intermediate meetings, constituted a Board of Directors by the election of ten ministers and fourteen laymen, November 9 and 16, 1835. This Board of Directors held its first meeting January 18, 1836, when it chose its officers, appointed its committees, adopted the preamble, and proceeded to further business. January 18, 1836, is therefore regarded as the official date of the founding of the Seminary.

The Seminary was opened for instruction on Monday, December 5, 1836. The Legislature of the State of New York passed the Act of Incorporation, March 27, 1839, and this was accepted by the Board of Directors, December 20, 1839.

The founders of the Seminary were Presbyterians of the broader type represented in the New School branch of the church, and had many affiliations with New England Congregationalism. They had in view a service of wider boundaries than those of the Presbyterian Church alone. The Seminary has been from the outset independent of ecclesiastical control. The only approach to such control was that on May 16, 1870, a few months after the Reunion of the Old and New School wings of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, in the interest of harmony and of similarity of standing for all the theological seminaries of the church, this Seminary conceded to the General Assembly the right of veto on the election of professors. This concession was withdrawn October 13, 1892, since which time Union Seminary has been ecclesiastically independent, according to the plan of its founders, and the provisions of its charter.

For many years the directors and professors gave their assent to the Westminster Standards, the prescribed formula varying from time to time. Since 1905 this requirement has ceased, and a new form of declaration has been provided, which secures the Christian character of the institution in comprehensive terms. At the present time the Board of Directors and the Faculty include representatives of the Presbyterian, Congregational, Reformed, Protestant Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal, Baptist, and Anglican Churches.

The principles underlying the foundation of the Seminary were expressed in the preamble adopted at the beginning by the founders. The preamble reads as follows:

PREAMBLE

That the design of the founders of this institution may be fully known to all whom it may concern, and be sacredly regarded by the directors, professors, and students, it is judged proper to make the following preliminary statement:

1. A number of Christians, clergymen and laymen, in the cities of New York and Brooklyn, deeply impressed with the claims of the world upon the church of Christ to furnish a competent supply of well-educated and pious ministers of correct principles, to preach the Gospel to every creature; impressed also with the inadequacy of all existing means for this purpose; and believing that large cities furnish many peculiar facilities and advantages for conducting theological education; after several meetings for consultation and prayer:

RESOLVED, unanimously, in humble dependence on the grace of God, to attempt the establishment of a Theological Seminary in the City of New York.

2. This institution (while it will receive others to the advantages it may furnish) is principally designed for such young men in the cities of New York and Brooklyn as are, or may be, desirous of pursuing a course of theological study, and whose circumstances render it inconvenient for them to go from home for this purpose.

3. It is the design of the founders to furnish the means of a full and thorough education, in all the subjects taught in the best theological seminaries in the United States, and also to embrace therewith a thorough knowledge of the standards of faith and discipline of the Presbyterian Church.

4. Being fully persuaded that vital godliness well proved, a thorough education, and a wholesome practical training in works of benevolence and pastoral labors, are all essentially necessary to meet the wants and promote the best interests of the Kingdom of Christ, the founders of this Seminary design that its students, living and acting under pastoral influence, and performing the important duties of church members in the several churches to which they belong, or with which they worship, in prayer-meetings, in the instruction of Sabbath-schools and Bible-classes, and being conversant with all the social benevolent efforts in this important location, shall have the opportunity of adding to solid learning and true piety enlightened experience.

5. By the foregoing advantages, the founders hope and expect, with the blessing of God, to call forth from these two flourishing cities, and to enlist in the service of Christ and in the work of the ministry, genius, talent, enlightened piety, and missionary zeal; and to qualify many for the labors and management of the various religious institutions, seminaries of learning, and enterprises of benevolence, which characterize the present times.

6. Finally, it is the design of the founders to provide a theological seminary in the midst of the greatest and most growing community in America, around which all men of moderate views and feelings, who desire to live free from party strife, and to stand aloof from all the extremes of doctrinal speculation, practical radicalism, and ecclesiastical domination, may cordially and affectionately rally.

REQUIREMENTS OF THE CHARTER

The charter provides that "equal privileges of admission and instruction, with all the advantages of the Institution, shall be allowed to students of every denomination of Christians."

In fact, instruction is given not only in the doctrine and polity of the Presbyterian Church, but also in those of other leading protestant churches. The student body at the present time is made up of members of thirty different Christian bodies. The endeavor is made to provide them all with what they need for effective service to their own communions.

PROFESSORSHIPS

Fourteen professorships for the most part bearing the names of their several founders, or of friends designated by them, are now wholly or partially endowed. In the order of their foundation they are as follows:

The Davenport Professorship of Sacred Rhetoric and Pastoral Theology, afterward changed, by consent, to the Davenport Professorship of Hebrew and the Cognate Languages. Founded in 1853 by Mr. James Boorman.

The Roosevelt Professorship of Systematic Theology. Founded in 1855 by the will of Mr. James Roosevelt.

The Washburn Professorship of Church History. Founded in 1855 by Mrs. Harriet W. Bell.

The Baldwin Professorship of Sacred Literature. Founded in 1865 by Mr. John C. Baldwin.

The Brown Professorship of Hebrew and Cognate Languages, afterward changed, by consent, to the Brown Professorship of Sacred Rhetoric, and, still later, to the Brown Professorship of Homiletics and Pastoral Theology. Founded in 1865 by Messrs. James and John A. Brown.

* The Skinner and McAlpin Professorship of Pastoral Theology, Church Polity and Mission Work, afterward changed, by consent, to the Skinner and McAlpin Professorship of Practical Theology. Founded in 1873 by Messrs. David H. McAlpin, W. E. Dodge, Sr., Charles Butler, and others.

The Edward Robinson Professorship of Biblical Theology. Founded in 1890 by Charles Butler, LL.D.

The William E. Dodge, Jr. Professorship of Applied Christianity. Founded in 1904.

The Jesup Graduate Professorship of Practical Theology. Founded in 1905 by Morris K. Jesup, LL.D.

The Marcellus Hartley Professorship of the Philosophy and History of Religion, afterward changed by consent to the Marcellus Hartley Professorship of the Philosophy of Religion. Founded in 1905 by Mrs. George W. Jenkins, Mr. Marcellus Hartley Dodge, and others.

The Professorship of Christian Ethics. Founded in 1905-07 by Messrs. John Crosby Brown, C. W. McAlpin, Eugene Delano, and others.

The Charles Butler Professorship of the History of Religions. Founded in 1913 by Miss Emily Ogden Butler.

The Charles A. Briggs Graduate Professorship of Christian Institutions. Founded in 1913 by Mr. Cleveland H. Dodge.

The Morris K. Jesup Professorship of Practical Theology. Founded in 1915 by the will of Mrs. Morris K. Jesup.

The first six of these professorships had their endowments greatly increased, in 1874, by gifts from Mr. James Brown, and again, in 1892, by gifts from Messrs. John Crosby Brown, William E. Dodge, D. Willis James, and Morris K. Jesup.

The Presidency of the Faculty was endowed in 1884 by Mr. James Brown.

Other professorships and associate and assistant professorships are not yet endowed.

INSTRUCTORSHIPS

The Harkness Instructorships in Vocal Culture and Elocution, and in Sacred Music, were endowed in 1883 by "A Friend in the West Presbyterian Church," in this city, supplementing gifts made for the purpose in 1880 by Mr. Frederick Marquand and others.

Two other instructorships are partially endowed, one by bequest of the late Professor Philip Schaff, D.D., LL.D.

LECTURESHIPS

The Elias P. Ely Lectureship on "The Evidences of Christianity" was founded in 1865 by Mr. Zebulon Stiles Ely.

The Morse Lectureship on "The Relations of the Bible to the Sciences" was founded in 1865 by Professor S. F. B. Morse.

The Parker Lectureship on "The Laws of Health" was founded in 1872 by Willard Parker, M.D.

SEMINARY BUILDINGS

The first Seminary building was at No. 9 University Place, and was dedicated December 12, 1838. In later years a few subsidiary buildings were acquired in Winthrop Place (or Greene Street), the next parallel street to the east, and at the corner of Winthrop Place and Clinton Place (Eighth Street).

In 1884 the Seminary moved to its second home on Lenox Hill, where its important group of buildings, with the main entrance at 1200 (afterward 700) Park Avenue, was dedicated December 9, 1884. The generous benefactions of ex-Governor Edwin D. Morgan, supplemented by large gifts from Messrs. D. Willis James, Morris K. Jesup, and others, made this move possible.

In 1908 the work of constructing the Seminary's third home was commenced, and these new buildings were occupied in June, 1910. The dedication took place, with appropriate services, November 27-29, 1910, and was attended by a large number of delegates from other institutions, together with many alumni and friends of the Seminary. This second move received its impulse and its chief support from the princely contributions of Mr. D. Willis James, to which, after his death, Mrs. James and Mr. Arthur Curtiss James made large additions. These have been supplemented by gifts from Mr. and Mrs. John Crosby Brown, and Dr. John Meigs.

A brief description of these buildings follows:*

Their architecture is the English perpendicular Gothic. They occupy the double block bounded by Broadway, Claremont Avenue, 120th and 122d Streets, and form a large rectangle, enclosing a quadrangle approximately 300 feet long and 100 feet wide. A part of the west side, however, is for the present unoccupied by any building.

A tower at the corner of Broadway and 120th Street contains the main entrance hall, arising through three stories. Its ceiling is vaulted with fan tracery. A wide circular stairway leads to the upper floors of the library as well as to the classrooms and professors' studies and offices in the administration building. This corner tower is designed to rise ultimately to a height of about 175 feet and will then be a striking feature of the group.

The library building occupies the Broadway side from the entrance tower to the library tower opposite 121st Street. On the first floor are two rooms devoted to the Biblical, Christian and Missionary Museum and to the exhibition of rare books. Several Seminar rooms occupy the second and fourth floors. On the third floor is the reference library, 100 feet long by 40 feet wide, with an oak beamed ceiling. The rooms for library administration adjoin this. The library stack is beneath the reference library, and contains five levels which connect with various floors. The library tower rises over a vaulted driveway with ornamental iron gates, the principal entrance to the quadrangle.

The Broadway tower opens also into the administration building, which extends along 120th Street. The offices of the Seminary are on the first floor; on the second and third floors are classrooms and an auditorium; the fourth and fifth are divided into offices and studies for professors and instructors. Both the library and the administration building have access to a terrace, which rises above the main level of the quadrangle at the south, and, from within, gives these buildings, with the chapel, a fitting prominence.

The chapel stands on Claremont Avenue, across the quadrangle from the library, its lofty tower rising on the axis of the quadrangle in line with the library tower. This chapel has been erected as a memorial to the late D. Willis James, Esq., who was a director of the Seminary for many years, and its largest benefactor. The great chancel window was designed and made in England by a firm which during four generations has produced some of the best work in the typical English antique glass. During the Commencement exercises in May, 1924 a memorial window to commemorate five former students of the Seminary, who fell in the late war, was dedicated with appropriate exercises. It was designed and executed by the Montague Castle-London Company of New York.

The president's house occupies the corner of 120th Street and Claremont Avenue. Between it and the chapel is a low cloister enclosing various service-rooms connected with the chapel. On the quadrangle side an interior cloister connects the entire group of buildings.

An apartment house bounds the quadrangle on 122d Street, and provides ten residences for professors.

The students' dormitory extends from 121st to 122d Street on Broadway and contains about one hundred and fifty sets of rooms. Most of these comprise a study with bedroom adjoining; a few sets consist of a study and two bedrooms. Shower baths and ample toilet accommodations are provided on each floor. In the library tower, with direct access from the dormitory, is a social room for the use of the students.

The buildings are of native stone taken from the site, the window tracery and finished trimmings being of Indiana limestone. A marked detail of the ornamentation is the series of academic seals and shields, carved in this limestone, on several faces of the administration building and library.

The buildings are fireproof throughout, are heated by steam and lighted by electricity, and are ventilated in the most approved manner. The main heating and lighting plant of the group is placed underneath the dormitory at the lowest point of the site.

The quadrangle is turfed and planted, so as to form an attractive and quiet enclosure.

The architects of the buildings are Messrs. Allen & Collens of Boston, Mass.

LIBRARY AND MUSEUM

The library of the Seminary, on account both of its great size and the value of its collections, offers unusual opportunities to scholars and investigators. On the first of May, 1926 it contained about 167,820 volumes, 80,359 pamphlets, and 363 manuscripts. It began with the purchase in 1838 of the library of Leander Van Ess, consisting of over 13,000 volumes including such rare and valuable works as 430 incunabula, from A.D. 1469 to 1510; 1,246 titles of reformation literature, in original editions; 37 manuscripts; 4,209 volumes in church history, patristics, canon law, etc.; about 200 editions of the Vulgate and of German bibles (the earliest being 1470). Valuable additions have been made from the collections of the late Drs. Robinson, Field, Marsh, Gillett, Smith, Adams, Hatfield, Hitchcock, Schaff, Prentiss, Jackson, and others.

The leading theological and many of the literary reviews and periodicals of England, Germany, France, and the United States, to the number of about 200, are currently received.

To exegetical theology special attention has been given from the beginning, and the library contains many rarities; for instance, a collection of Greek testaments, gathered by the late Dr. Isaac H. Hall, and presented in 1898 by Mr. David H. McAlpin.

The Henry B. Smith Memorial Collection of Philosophy (endowed in 1887) contains the works of the leading American, English, French, and German philosophical writers.

In practical theology special purchases have recently been made in liturgics and canon law. To the hymnological department, the late Henry Day, Esq., presented in 1888 about 5,000 volumes, the library of Professor Frederic M. Bird. The future growth of this collection is assured through the Henry Day Memorial Fund, given by Mrs. R. Hall McCormick in 1909 in memory of her father.

The chief distinction of the library lies, however, in the field of historical theology. In patristics it contains many Benedictine and earlier imprints, the Migne sets and later critical editions of the fathers. Notable additions have recently been made to the literature of creeds and councils, polemics and irenics. A large number of volumes relating to Zwingli and the reformation at Zurich, constituting an almost exhaustive collection, was presented in 1901 by the Rev. Professor Samuel Macauley Jackson, D.D., LL.D. The Gillett Collection of American History (endowed in 1884 by the late David H. McAlpin) and the Field and other collections of pamphlets contain useful material for the study of the civil and religious history and the theology of America. Most valuable of all is the McAlpin Collection of British History and Theology (endowed in 1884 by Mr. McAlpin), gathered mainly under the supervision of the late Professor Briggs. It contains about fifteen thousand rare and important books and pamphlets relating to the early puritans, to the Westminster assembly, and to the deistic, trinitarian and ecclesiastical controversies of the eighteenth century, as well as a large collection of general and local histories of Great Britain and her churches. A catalogue of the books issued before 1700 has been prepared on an elaborate plan, and its printing is now proceeding.

A library of religious and moral education inaugurated in 1910 by generous gifts from many publishers is maintained in a separate room which contains also a separate card catalogue and facilities for reading and study. This library includes works on the general theory of education, educational psychology, and the practice of teaching; books and files of periodicals especially relating to the moral and religious phases of education; and the teaching material (printed and pictorial) of the various Sunday-school curricula.

The endowment of the Charles Cuthbert Hall Memorial Library of Christian Missions (completed in 1910) makes possible the expansion of the present collection of literature on missions and the civilizations and religions with which the missionary has to deal.

The reference library of between 4,000 and 5,000 volumes is composed of choice standard works and constitutes a model theological library, intended both for those who desire to pursue lines of study suggested in the classroom, and for any other persons in search of accurate information on theological topics. The public is encouraged to visit the library and the assistants are glad to make all the collections available to visitors. Special attention has been given to providing the latest and most valuable bibliographical tools, so that investigators will find their work greatly facilitated.

The library is open to the public during term time on every week-day from 8:45 a. m. to 6 p. m. and from 7 to 10 p. m. During vacation (with the exception of the month from the middle of August till the middle of September) the library is open to the public on every week-day, from 8:45 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The museum includes Biblical and Christian antiquities, and objects illustrating missionary life and work. Liberal contributions have already been received and others are solicited, especially from the missionary alumni.

Numerous other libraries in New York City containing material of value to the student of theology are readily accessible. Among them are the New York Public Library (Astor, Lenox and Tilden Foundations), now one of the largest in the country; the library of the General Theological Seminary of the Protestant Episcopal Church; the libraries of Columbia University, Teachers College, and the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. The last three are within easy reach of the Seminary.

RELATIONS WITH OTHER INSTITUTIONS

Relations of special and reciprocal academic courtesy exist with Columbia and New York Universities and with certain other neighboring institutions, by which they offer to properly accredited students of the Seminary the use of their libraries, subject to due regulations, and also grant to such students admission to the recitations and lectures of their graduate courses.

The Seminary in turn welcomes to its courses as special students, graduate students of Columbia and New York Universities, and such students of other affiliated institutions as may hold a bachelor's degree from an approved college or university.

Seminary students may, after enrollment, take courses in the institutions referred to, counting such credits toward graduation to the extent of eight points a year, but not exceeding sixteen points in the entire course. Points credited toward the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in Columbia and New York Universities cannot also be counted toward Seminary graduation. All students taking such courses must pay for them at the regular University rate. A registration fee is required for each semester, and a further fee for failure to register within the required time.

Students who elect courses at these affiliated institutions engage to attend them faithfully until their completion, and to submit to such quizzes, reviews and examinations as may be exacted of them by the professors or teachers in charge.

For particulars as to the summer session of Columbia University, address the Director of Summer Session, Columbia University, New York City.

DEGREES

Degrees in theology (the bachelor's, the master's and the doctor's degrees) are offered by the Seminary upon conditions set forth in subsequent statements in this catalogue. The degrees of master of arts and doctor of philosophy are offered by Columbia and New York Universities under conditions specified in their bulletins or catalogues. Seminary students are permitted to work for these degrees and certain Seminary courses are accepted in partial fulfilment of the university requirements. For the master's and doctor's degrees in education, and the doctor's degree in the history and philosophy of religion, see the conditions set forth on pages 61-65.

FELLOWSHIPS

TRAVELLING FELLOWSHIPS

Two travelling fellowships have been endowed for the purpose of encouraging special merit in the pursuit of higher theological culture. The one is known as "THE PHILADELPHIA FELLOWSHIP," endowed by "A Friend of the Seminary," the other as "THE FRANCIS P. SCHOALS FELLOWSHIP," endowed by the friend whose name it bears. The income of these fellowships is appropriated to the support of incumbents, for two years each, in prosecuting special studies, either in this country or in Europe, under the direction of the Faculty.

The annual income of the two fellowships ($1,000 each) is appropriated subject to the following terms and conditions:

1. No person shall be eligible as fellow who has not been a member of this Seminary, and of the same class, for the full course leading to the degree of bachelor of divinity.

2. Those only shall be appointed fellows, annually or otherwise, according to the discretion of the faculty, who have made such proficiency in the original languages of the Bible and in general theological scholarship as to warrant their appointment, and who, in other respects, as to health, condition, and character, seem to the Faculty best fitted to improve the opportunities which these fellowships offer.

3. Those accepting appointments as fellows must agree to prosecute their studies, in this or other countries, for two years under the direction of the faculty and to their satisfaction, reporting to them semi-annually.

Two other travelling fellowships, one of them known as the Fogg Fellowship, each with an annual stipend of $1,000, have been provided with the same purpose of encouraging special merit in the pursuit of higher theological culture. One of them is offered to each graduating class upon the following conditions:

1. Holders of this fellowship must have been in residence here as undergraduate students for at least two years and have maintained a high grade in their Seminary work.

2. They must have made such proficiency in some department of theological scholarship as to warrant their appointment, and in other respects must seem to the Faculty fitted to improve the opportunities which the fellowship offers.

3. Those accepting the appointment must agree to prosecute their studies in this or in other countries during the term of the fellowship under the direction of the faculty.

4. The appointment will be made for one year, but may be renewed for a second year at the pleasure of the faculty.

All the above fellowships are awarded by the faculty upon its own initiative and are not to be applied for.

RESIDENT FELLOWSHIPS

Four resident fellowships have been provided for the purpose of encouraging advanced theological study. The annual stipend of these fellowships is $650 each. They are awarded for one year, but the period of tenure may be extended at the pleasure of the faculty. All four of them are offered for the academic year 1927-1928.

Holders of these fellowships must be graduates of high standing of this or of some other accredited theological institution, and they must agree to do a full year of graduate work here, specializing in a particular subject under the direction of some department of Seminary instruction.

Applications for the fellowships should contain full particulars as to the candidate's training and purposes and, if he be from another theological institution, must be accompanied by testimonials from the faculty of that institution.

All applications must be in the hands of the dean of students not later than the first of May preceding the academic year for which the awards are made.

There have been provided also certain resident fellowships open to graduates in theology of high standing from Great Britain, France and Switzerland. Three, designed particularly for Scottish students, have been endowed; the first, known as the Jarvie Fellowship, by Mr. James N. Jarvie; the second, known as the Sewickley Fellowship, by members of the Sewickley Valley Presbyterian Church; and the third, known as the Hugh Black Fellowship, by friends of Professor Black. Four other fellowships have been provided, one endowed by Mr. David B. Mills for an English student; one endowed by Mrs. William Sloane for a French student; and two for European students, one endowed by Mrs. John Hills in memory of her son John Stuart Hills, and the other by the Seminary Faculty in memory of the late President Francis Brown.

PREACHING FELLOWSHIP

A Resident Fellowship designed to encourage advanced preparation for the work of preaching has been founded by Miss Eleanor deGraff Cuyler. The annual stipend of the fellowship is $650. The fellowship is awarded for one year, but the period of tenure may be extended at the pleasure of the faculty.

The holder of this fellowship must be a graduate of high standing of this or of some other accredited theological institution. Applications for the fellowship should contain full particulars as to the candidate's training and purposes, and if he be a graduate of another theological institution, must be accompanied by testimonials from the faculty of the theological school of which he is a graduate, and also from some clergyman or other person competent to judge of his promise as a preacher and of his ability to profit by further training in preaching. The holder of this fellowship must agree to prosecute his studies during the full term of his appointment, under the direction of the faculty.

All applications must be in the hands of the dean of students not later than the first of May preceding the academic year for which the award is to be made.

MISSIONARY FELLOWSHIPS AND SCHOLARSHIPS

Five resident fellowships, with an annual stipend of $750 each, have been provided for missionaries on furlough and for exceptionally qualified natives of mission lands. These are: The McFadden Fellowship, endowed by Mr. George H. McFadden in memory of his wife, Emily B. McFadden; The Ludington Fellowship, endowed by Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ludington; the Dodge Fellowship, endowed by Mr. Cleveland H. Dodge; the Bulkley Fellowship, endowed by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Bulkley; and the Safford Memorial Fellowship, endowed by friends of the late Theodore L. Safford, an alumnus of the class of 1923. Applicants for these fellowships must be persons of special attainment and promise who have already completed a course of theological study and have engaged in actual service in mission lands. Award of the Safford Fellowship is restricted to natives of mission lands.

The aim of the fellowships is to make possible advanced missionary preparation, and to encourage productive missionary scholarship. Preference will be given to those who seek the solution of some particular problem. Incorporation of results in a monograph will be encouraged.

The fellowships are awarded by the faculty for one year, but the period of tenure may be extended when quality of work or attending circumstances justify it. Holders of these fellowships must agree to prosecute their studies for the full term of their appointment, under the direction of the faculty.

No application for a fellowship will be considered unless accompanied by full statements not only from the applicant himself, but also from suitable officials (e. g., of the Mission, Board, or Church). Facts concerning the applicant's education, attainments, ability, purpose and health will be needed as an adequate basis for deciding the relative qualifications of the applicants for appointment. All applications with accompanying testimonials should be in the hands of the dean of students not later than the first of January preceding the academic year for which application is made.

Two Missionary Scholarships with a stipend of $450 each, are offered to persons engaged in Christian service in mission lands, whether missionaries on furlough or natives of those lands, provided they are duly qualified by their previous training to enter the Seminary and give satisfactory evidence of actual achievement and of promise for future service. Persons accepting these scholarships must prosecute their studies in this Seminary as regular graduate or undergraduate students for at least one full academic year.

No application for these missionary scholarships will be considered unless accompanied by testimonials from officials (e. g., of the Mission, Board, or Church), giving information regarding the applicant's education, scholarly capacity and prospective work. All applications and testimonials should reach the dean of students of the Seminary not later than the first day of January preceding the academic year for which the scholarship is sought.

STUDENT FRIENDSHIP FUND

For a series of years the students of the Seminary gave annually toward the support of a missionary alumnus on the foreign field, but more recently the plan was changed and they have elected to contribute toward the support of a qualified student from a missionary land, varying the country from year to year. Thus far representatives of India, China, Japan, Porto Rico and Syria have been received. Nominations are made by the Faculty's Committee on Foreign Service in consultation with a student-committee, and submitted to the Faculty for approval. The stipend furnished by students and professors is about $1500, a sum sufficient to meet travelling expenses and living costs during the year of incumbency.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Sixteen Prize Scholarships (apportioned equally among the four classes), each with an annual stipend of $500, are offered for competition by students about to enter upon the studies of the first, second, third and fourth year in this Seminary. Only graduates of high standing of approved colleges, are eligible to compete for first-year scholarships; students of high rank enrolled in this or some other approved seminary, may compete for second, third or fourth year scholarships, and graduates of other approved seminaries may enter the fourth-year examinations, provided their previous standing has been of high character.

Awards will be made to those students who make the best record in special competitive examinations, with the proviso that no award will be made to any competitor who does not pass the examinations with high credit. The awards are for a single year, but any holder of a scholarship may compete again for the following year upon the same terms as others. Holders of these scholarships will be known as Fayerweather, Baldwin, Iverson, or Sanders Prize Scholars and will be designated in the annual catalogue.

The examinations will be held in New York on the three successive days following the end of the academic year, and may be held in other places on the same days, when requested by eligible candidates. If any of these scholarships remain unawarded after the May examinations, supplementary examinations will be held at the Seminary in September on the first three days of the opening week of the academic year.

Applications by students coming from other institutions for admission to any of these examinations must be accompanied by testimonials of college or seminary standing. In the case of the May examinations, application must be made to the Registrar of the Seminary on or before April 15th; and in the case of the September examinations not later than the first of September.

The Prize Scholarship examinations will cover three subjects, one of which the applicant must designate as his major subject. The grade received in the major subject will be given double weight in calculating the average grade. A student who shall pass satisfactorily the examination in a subject for which advance credit is allowed (marked †) may receive such credit, whether he be successful in securing a scholarship award or not.

Students who have taken courses in seminary subjects either in this Seminary or elsewhere should not consider themselves thereby fully prepared for the prize examinations in such subjects, but must supplement the classroom work by further study and more extensive reading. Competitors for first-year scholarships must elect at least one subject from each of groups I and II. Competitors for second, third and fourth year scholarships must select one, or they may select all three subjects from group III. A subject previously offered as a minor may be elected again if designated as a major. Of the subjects marked with an asterisk (*), not more than two may be chosen in the same competition.

In all cases the examinations will be written, and the time for each is limited to four hours.

Eight scholarships with an annual stipend of $350 and ten with an annual stipend of $200 will be offered each year to graduates and undergraduates who have already been one or more years in this Seminary. The former will be awarded to the eight students who have attained the highest grade in the Seminary work of the previous year, the latter to the ten students next in rank, provided that none of the former will be awarded to anyone whose average grade for the year falls below A, and none of the latter to anyone whose average grade falls below B, and who has failed to win scholarly distinction in at least one subject. None of these scholarships will be awarded to the holder of a prize scholarship.

All the above scholarships will be regarded as honors and will be awarded without reference to pecuniary need. Holders of them may, if they choose, surrender their stipend without forfeiting their titles as scholars. Any stipend so surrendered will be given to another student if there be any eligible for the particular scholarship concerned.

No student will receive more than one scholarship award in any one year.

SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS

The scholarship funds of the Seminary have been contributed by the following persons: Mr. Daniel B. Fayerweather; Mr. William Earl Dodge; Mrs. William H. Fogg in memory of her husband, William Hayes Fogg; Mrs. Amelia Kerr; Mr. John C. Baldwin; Mr. Andrew McClyment; Mr. David B. Iverson, in memory of his father, Henry Iverson; Mr. James Allen; Mr. Frederick Billings; Mr. Marcellus Hartley in memory of his daughter Emma Hartley; Miss Sarah B. Hills; Mr. Edwin M. Bulkley, in memory of his father, the Rev. Edwin A. Bulkley, D.D.; Mrs. A. E. Rood, in honor of her aunt, Ellen Naglee; Miss Alida Van Rensselaer Constable, in honor of the Rev. Thomas H. Skinner, D.D.; Mr. George D. Nicholas; Mrs. Jane E. Woolsey; Mrs. Amelia A. Cobb, in honor of Mr. Otis Allen; Mr. M. O. Halsted; Miss Jane Ward; Mrs. Margaret Scott Wood and Mrs. Elizabeth Scott Brayton; the Rev. E. R. Fairchild, D.D.; Miss Jane Blewitt; Mr. William L. King; Mr. William M. Halsted; Mr. Josiah H. Reed, in honor of the Rev. Asa D. Smith, D.D.; Mr. Ambrose K. Ely; Mr. D. Willis James; Miss Mary Townsend, in honor of the Rev. Jonathan F. Stearns, D.D.; Mrs. Caroline P. Stokes; Mr. J. F. Cook; Mrs. E. C. Griggs;

the Rev. Henry M. Sanders, D.D.; the Presbyterian Church of Lake Forest, Illinois; the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church of Plainfield, N. J.; and others.

HITCHCOCK PRIZE IN CHURCH HISTORY

In accordance with a recommendation in the will of the late Professor Roswell Dwight Hitchcock, President of the Seminary 1880-1887, his family has endowed "The Hitchcock Prize in Church History." The income of this endowment ($200) is to be paid at or about Christmas in each year to such member of the senior class as, in the entire course in this Seminary, shall then have attained the highest excellence in church history and kindred subjects. Each competitor for this prize must have been a member of this Seminary for the two and one-half years next preceding the award, and must submit to the faculty an essay upon one of such topics as may be assigned. The essay must be typewritten and must be presented on or before the first Wednesday in December. All essays submitted in competition are to be deposited in the library. The award will be made on the basis both of classroom work and of the essay.

PHILIP SCHAFF PRIZE IN BIBLICAL THEOLOGY

From a gift of the late Professor Philip Schaff the Board of Directors, in accordance with his wish, has set aside a sum for the endowment of a prize in Biblical theology. The prize amounts to $125 and is offered annually upon the following conditions:

Competitors may be members of either the senior or third year class. They must be proficient in Biblical theology and kindred Biblical subjects, including Hebrew and Greek. They must submit to the faculty an essay upon one of such topics as may be assigned. The essay must be typewritten and must be presented on or before the second Wednesday in April. The award will be made to the successful competitor on or about the first day of May in each year, and the essay will be deposited in the library.

SELF-SUPPORT

New York and its environs offer numerous opportunities for self-support, the majority of which are of direct aid in the student's professional preparation. The Department of Field Work, in order to bring the student into contact with the more desirable opportunities and to counsel with him in his choice, conducts a student employment office to which institutions desiring student help regularly apply. Positions available each year include student pastorates, pulpit supply, the superintending of church schools, the teaching of Bible classes and the leading of boys' clubs both in institutional churches and social settlements. A student may secure remunerative work independently of the student employment office, but since such work often involves a larger amount of time than is consistent with his obligations to his studies, it is expected that, previous to the acceptance of any such positions, the student will consult with the director of field work for his counsel and sanction.

A student desiring remunerative work should make application by letter to the director of field work well in advance of the opening of the Seminary, stating his preference, and enclosing letters of reference and recommendation. This will expedite the placing of the student upon his arrival. But the director cannot guarantee employment in any instance, nor can he make a definite assignment previous to a personal interview with the student. Frequently there are considerable periods of delay in securing positions with which remuneration is connected, hence the student should be supplied with funds to maintain himself during the interval. The long summer vacation affords opportunity for such active service as will contribute toward self-support.

By an arrangement with the churches and other institutions concerned, and to the limit of available funds, any regularly enrolled student who is a candidate for the bachelor's degree is eligible to one year of supervised field work with remuneration of $400, upon condition that he is not otherwise compensated for this or other work, and that his field work is performed to the satisfaction of the department of field work.

FEES AND EXPENSES

Regular students are charged a tuition fee of $150 a year; and special students or graduate students taking fewer courses than are required of regular students, a fee of $10 a curriculum point, a point representing approximately one hour a week for one semester.

The regular tuition fee of $150 will cover only the courses taken in the Seminary. The tuition fee of $150 is payable to the Bursar in two installments of $75 each, at the beginning of each semester. The tuition fees of special students are likewise payable at the beginning of each semester for the courses to be taken during that semester.

Registration for the courses in any semester will not be considered as completed until the tuition fees have been paid. The privilege of a late registration may be granted upon the payment of a fee of $5.

Rent is not charged for dormitory rooms, but each student occupying a room is charged $50 a year for heat, light and care of room. This is payable semi-annually in advance, at the beginning of each semester. No deduction is made in cases where students do not remain for the full periods indicated above. Students make their own arrangements for board and laundry.

The fee for the Bachelor's degree is $5.00, for the Master's degree, $10.00 and for the Doctor's degree, $25.00, payable on or before April 15th to the Bursar of the Seminary.

At Columbia University, a university membership fee of $6.00 is required in each term of each student registered, and a further fee of $6.00 is exacted in case of failure to register within the required time.

STUDENTS' RESIDENCE

The Seminary buildings include a dormitory with furnished rooms for the students. They are heated by steam and lighted by electricity and contain all necessary furniture and bedding, toweling alone excepted. Rooms are granted to regular students, but not to special students. Graduated students who take not less than 24 points (of which 20 must be in the Seminary itself), in each academic year, and students not candidates for graduation, who take not less than 24 points each year in the Seminary itself, may apply for dormitory privileges. A regular student who fails to complete at least 24 points in a preceding year will not be eligible for dormitory privileges in the subsequent year.

Rooms will be assigned to the capacity of the dormitory in the order of application, upon receipt of satisfactory testimonials and certificates, and the payment in advance of the fee ($25) for the first semester. This fee will be returned if the student shall fail to matriculate. Each incoming student will be required to report at the office of the registrar before taking possession of the room assigned to him. Rooms unclaimed by the opening day of the semester may be assigned otherwise.

Students' baggage should be addressed to No. 600 West 122d Street.

MISSIONARY APARTMENTS

In September, 1926 twelve apartments for missionaries on furlough were opened at 99 Claremont Avenue, opposite to the Seminary chapel. The building was secured as one of the results of the recent campaign for additional endowment and accommodations.

With the opening of the academic year 1927-28 eight additional apartments will be available. All twenty are fully furnished for housekeeping, including kitchen utensils, table ware and bedding. Most of them contain four rooms (two bed-rooms, living room, kitchen and bath: charge $480), and a few six rooms ($720). These charges are payable in eight equal installments. The privilege of occupancy until August 15th is allowed.

These apartments are available to missionaries on furlough who intend to return to the mission field. Applicants must be able to meet the conditions for admission to the Seminary as stated elsewhere in this catalogue, and in all cases they must take the majority of their work in the Seminary itself. The occupant must be responsible for the charge indicated above, for the entire academic year, but if compelled to leave before its expiration, the Seminary will endeavor to find another qualified occupant. No occupant will be allowed to sub-let any part of his apartment. Applications should be made to Prof. Gaylord S. White, who will make assignments on or about the first of February to the extent of available accommodations. Applications made at later dates will receive all possible consideration.

PHYSICAL EXERCISE

The gymnasium of the Seminary, erected at the northwest corner of Claremont Avenue and 120th Street, has been fully equipped in the most approved manner under expert advice.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES

Daily prayers are conducted by the professors in the chapel. One hour in every week is set apart for meetings of conference and prayer conducted by the faculty, for meetings under the auspices of the Seminary Students' Association, or for other missionary and general religious purposes. A devotional service is held at the opening of each academic year, and the communion of the Lord's Supper is celebrated at various times and also on the Sunday before Commencement.

Since the beginning of the academic year 1910-1911 Sunday morning services have been maintained, intended for students and such other persons in the neighborhood as are without regular church home.

A Sunday School, known as The Union School of Religion, is carried on during the academic year, under the supervision of the department of religious education. A special announcement of the school is available on request.

CONFERENCES

The usual Lincoln's Birthday Conference of Social Workers was held, the general subject under consideration being "The significance of religious concepts in an age of science," and "Religion and social work."

Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22, 1927, was designated by the Alumni Council with the approval of the Faculty, as Alumni Day. There were addresses by members of the Faculty in the morning; luncheon at the International House. A discussion of Seminary interests followed, and the exercises concluded with a reception by President and Mrs. Coffin.

The fourth annual Conference on Church Work in City and Industrial Communities, for city pastors and other religious workers for a discussion of problems in this field, was held during June 2-12, 1926 and will be repeated in 1927.

The fifth annual Mid-Summer Conference for Ministers and Religious Workers was held during July 6-17, 1926. This conference is of a more general nature for the consideration of problems in theological fields. It is held each year.

THE UNION SETTLEMENT

The Union Settlement, founded by the Alumni Club of the Seminary in 1893 and located in the heart of the crowded upper East Side, at 237 East 104th Street, stands in close though unofficial relation with the Seminary. Members of the Board of Directors and Faculty belong to the governing board of the settlement. President Coffin is chairman of the board and Professor White is the secretary. Students are urged to take advantage of the opportunity which the settlement affords to acquaint themselves with the characteristic problems of congested populations. As residents, as leaders of boys' clubs, as gymnasium assistants, etc., they may gain valuable insight not only into human nature, but also into the character of the immigrant classes which, in many centers of population, so greatly complicate the question of religious effort.

SPECIAL LECTURES AND ADDRESSES

The Commencement Address at the close of the year 1925-1926 was delivered by Professor Harry Ward, subject, "Unless they are sent." The Opening Address in September, 1926 was delivered by President Coffin, subject, "Evangelistic Preaching."

Occasional lectures and addresses were delivered during 1925-1926 by the following speakers, the names being arranged alphabetically: the Rev. Charles Whitney Gilkey, of the Hyde Park Baptist Church of Chicago, "Religious Reflections of a Barrows Lecturer in India;" the Rev. Robert L. Kelly, secretary of the Council of Church Boards of Education, "What are our Seminaries doing To-day?"; Dr. Gustav Krüger, professor of Church History in the University of Giessen, "Recent Tendencies in German Theology;" the Rev. H. D. A. Major, principal of Ripon Hall, Oxford, England, "Modernism;" the Rev. Joseph H. Oldham, secretary of the International Missionary Council, "Missions and the Colonial Problem;" the Rev. W. Paton, secretary of the National Council of India, "The Christian Outlook in India;" Prof. Michael Idvorsky Pupin, of Columbia University, "Science and Religion;" the Rt. Rev. Logan Herbert Roots, bishop of Hankow, China, "The new Patriotism and Christian Missions in China;" the Rev. Oliver Russell, of Edinburgh, Scotland, "Scotland's Educational System."

The preachers in the Seminary Chapel at the services on Sunday mornings were the Rev. Charles N. Arbuckle, pastor of the Baptist Church, Newton Centre, Mass.; the Rev. Charles Reynolds Brown, Dean of Yale Divinity School; the Rev. Hugh C. Burr, pastor of the Baptist Church of Elmira, N. Y.; the Rev. Professor A. Bruce Curry, of the Biblical Seminary, New York; Dr. Sherwood Eddy, of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A.; the Rev. Herbert K. England, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Roselle, N. J.; the Rev. James Gordon Gilkey, pastor of the South Congregational Church of Springfield, Mass.; the Rev. Sidney L. Gulick, of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America; the Rev. Martin D. Hardin, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Ithaca, N. Y.; the Rev. Joel B. Hayden, pastor of the Fairmount Presbyterian Church of Cleveland, Ohio; the Rev. Lynn Harold Hough, pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal Church of Detroit, Mich.; the Rev. William H. Hudnut, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Youngstown, Ohio; the Rev. Professor Rufus M. Jones, of Haverford College; the Rev. Raymond C. Knox, chaplain of Columbia University; the Rev. William P. Ladd, dean of Berkeley Divinity School, Middletown, Conn.; the Rev. Appleton Lawrence, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church of Lynn, Mass.; the Rev. John J. Moment, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church of Plainfield, N. J.; the Rev. Professor Robert W. Rogers, of Drew Theological Seminary; the Right Rev. Warren L. Rogers, bishop coadjutor of Ohio; the Rev. Charles F. Shaw, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Asbury Park, N. J.; the Rev. Willard P. Soper, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Stamford, Conn.; the Rev. R. Bruce Taylor, Principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.; the Rev. Professor Henry Hallam Tweedy, of Yale Divinity School; the Rev. Professor Ambrose W. Vernon, of Dartmouth College; the Rev. Kenneth B. Welles, pastor of the Edwards Congregational Church of Northampton, Mass.; the Rev. Luke White, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church of Montclair, N. J.; the Rev. Edgar Swan Wiers, pastor of Unity Church of Montclair, N. J.; and the following members of the Seminary Faculty, Professors Brown, Frame, Scott, and Ward.

MEDICAL SUPERVISION

The general health of the students in the dormitory is under the supervision of the medical director. Once a year each student is required to report for a physical examination, the result of which is placed on file. At stated hours during each week the medical director is in his office in the dormitory for consultation and advice. All cases of physical disability are reported to him promptly.

ADMISSION

Students seeking admission to the Seminary, either as regular or special students, must be graduates of a college of recognized standing.

All students must present in order to enrollment, the following papers:

First. An official statement of graduation from a college of recognized standing. For enrollment as a graduate student an official statement of graduation from a theological school of recognized standing is also necessary. A student coming from another theological school to advanced standing here must present an official dismissal from that school and a certificate showing the courses completed there. Such dismissal and certificate must be secured by the student himself, and forwarded to be filed with his other papers in the office of the dean of students.

Second. An official statement of church membership or of connection with some ecclesiastical body.

Third. Two letters of introduction from responsible persons, clergymen, professors, or others.

All letters or personal inquiries regarding admission to the Seminary should be addressed to the Dean of Students, the Rev. CHARLES R. GILLET, D.D.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION¹

THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF DIVINITY

The bachelor's degree will be granted upon the following conditions:

1. Candidates must be graduates of a college of recognized standing.

2. They must complete satisfactorily 112² curriculum points or their equivalent. Not more than 32 points may be counted in any one academic year, and to secure the total number of points may require four years, but this period may be reduced in certain circumstances to three and a half or three years. To obtain the degree in less than three years will not be possible. Students desiring to reduce the period of study to three and a half or three years are advised to come prepared in the following subjects: (a) the history of philosophy; (b) the history of western civilization since the end of the eighteenth century with special reference to the modern scientific and social interests; (c) classical or hellenistic Greek; (d) Hebrew; (e) the English Bible.³ If on entering the Seminary they show, by examination or by satisfactory certificates, that they have an adequate knowledge of any of these subjects, they may receive advance credit to an amount not exceeding 22 points: (Not more than 8 points in (a), 6 points in (b), 8 points in (c) and 8 points in (d); 6 points may also be allowed in (e), but only by examination). Students receiving advance credit to the amount of 22 points, may enter the second year class directly from college.

¹ Changes in the requirements for the degrees of B.D. and S.T.M. will be made beginning in September, 1927.

² Toward the fulfilment of this requirement, courses taken after enrollment in the Seminary in any of the institutions with which the Seminary is affiliated may be counted to an amount not exceeding 8 points in any one academic year and not exceeding 16 points in the entire course; but this limitation does not apply to such courses as are recommended by a department of the Seminary as supplementary to the work offered by the Seminary and essential to the work of the department.

3. They must choose a field of major interest⁴ in connection with some department of theology about which to organize their course of study. They must carry on their work under the direction and to the satisfaction of the department most nearly related to their chosen field, and will ordinarily be required to complete courses aggregating not less than 24 points within this field and directly related subjects. They must write a thesis upon an approved topic or problem involving investigation and experiment within the range of their field of major interest, and must pass a final examination, to be conducted by a committee of the faculty, upon the thesis in its relation to other subjects of theological study. In this examination candidates will be expected not only to show their acquaintance with the field of their major interest but also to give evidence of ability and resourcefulness within it.

The field of major interest shall be chosen by candidates ordinarily during the second year of their course, and in any case must be approved not later than the beginning of the last year of residence. The thesis must be presented not later than the first day of March preceding the commencement at which the degree is to be conferred, the subject of the thesis having been approved by the department at least four months before.

4. They must show that they have an adequate knowledge of (a) the Bible, its contents, religion and literature, including the ability to interpret the Old Testament in Hebrew or the New Testament in Greek; (b) the history of Christianity; (c) Christian theology.

The requirements in these subjects may be met by passing examinations in the subjects named or by completing courses in the same in this or in some other approved theological school. To ensure a proper correlation of these subjects with the field of special interest, candidates must choose their courses in consultation with the professor in charge of their field; but these courses shall in no case amount to less than 8 points each in Old Testament, New Testament, Church History and Systematic Theology, and 4 points in exegetical courses either in Hebrew or Greek. The specific requirements in each of the subjects are indicated in the announcements of the several departments.

⁴ Religious leadership in some particular form is regarded as a field of major interest.

5. The faculty reserves the right to exclude from graduation candidates whose papers show that they are unable to express themselves in clear and correct English.

6. Candidates for the degree are ranked as first year students during their first year of theological study, as second year, third year and senior students during the second, third, and fourth years, respectively. No student will be promoted from the first to the second year class until he has completed at least 22 curriculum points or their equivalent, from the second to the third year class until he has completed at least 52 curriculum points or their equivalent, and from the third year to the senior class until he has completed at least 80 curriculum points or their equivalent.

7. Graduates of colleges of recognized standing who have studied in an approved theological school may be admitted to advanced standing as candidates for the degree, upon the presentation of testimonials showing the completion, for admission to the second year class, of the equivalent of at least 22 curriculum points; for admission to the third year class the equivalent of at least 52 curriculum points; and for admission to the senior class the equivalent of at least 80 curriculum points. But no candidate will be granted the degree who has been in residence less than one full academic year, and has completed less than 28 curriculum points in this Seminary. Candidates admitted to advanced standing will be required before graduation to meet the conditions laid down in paragraphs 2-4.

8. Special students may receive the degree upon completing all the requirements set forth in paragraphs 2-4.

THE DEGREE OF MASTER OF THEOLOGY

The master's degree in theology (S.T.M.) will be given on the following conditions:

1. Candidates for the degree must be graduates of a college of recognized standing and must hold the bachelor's degree in theology from this or from some other approved institution. When they hold a bachelor's degree in theology representing an amount of work less than that required for our own bachelor's degree, they must do the extra work, either here or in some other approved institution, before being enrolled as candidates for the master's degree.

2. Before being enrolled as candidates for the master's degree they must be able to read the New Testament in Greek; and they must have a working knowledge of French or German to be tested within the first two weeks of the academic year.

3. After being accepted by the faculty as candidates for the master's degree, they must complete at least one full year of graduate study in this Seminary. The work for the degree may be taken all in one year or may be distributed over two or more years.

4. Candidates for the degree must choose a major subject in some department of theology and must carry on their work under the direction of the department and to its satisfaction. Within this department they must take a seminar and such other courses as the department may require. They must also write a thesis upon an approved topic falling within the range of their major subject. The thesis must be presented not later than the 15th of April preceding the Commencement at which the degree is to be conferred, the subject of the thesis having been approved by the department at least five months before. Two copies of each thesis must be deposited in the library.

5. Travelling Fellows of this Seminary may be given the master's degree in theology at the expiration of two years of study in this country or abroad, provided they choose a major subject in some department of theology and carry on their work in it under the direction of the department and to its satisfaction, and provided they present a satisfactory thesis upon a topic approved by the department.

THE DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF THEOLOGY

The doctor's degree in theology (Th.D.) will be given on the following conditions:

1. Only students already holding the master's degree in theology from this institution will be accepted as candidates for the doctor's degree and only in case their work for the master's degree has been of a high order.

2. After having acquired the master's degree and after being accepted as candidates for the doctor's degree, they must spend at least one additional year in theological study in this Seminary under the direction of the faculty.

3. Before enrollment candidates for the degree must be able to read the Hebrew of the Old Testament and the Greek of the New Testament, and special attainments in Hebrew or Greek or Latin will be required if germane to the major subject. They must also possess a working knowledge of French and German.

4. Before enrollment candidates for the degree must pass an examination (I) that shall test their general knowledge of the religious ideas of Israel to the end of the first century of our era and of the history of Christian thought and (2) that shall test their special knowledge of one classic representative of Christian theology.

5. They must choose a special field of research from one of the following departments: Old Testament, New Testament, history of Christianity, history of religions, philosophy of religion, Christian theology or Christian ethics. The special field of research must be approved by the department concerned and by the committee on graduate study at least two semesters before the completion of residence for the degree. It is recommended that the field selected be the same as that chosen for the master's degree in theology.

6. They must prepare a thesis on a subject within the chosen field of research. The subject of the thesis must be approved by the department concerned and by the graduate committee not later than the beginning of the last year of residence for the degree. The subject of the thesis may be the same as that of the thesis for the master's degree if it be such as to afford adequate opportunity for further research. The thesis must rest upon independent investigation, must exhibit constructive ability and constitute a contribution to theological knowledge. The thesis must be printed before the degree is conferred.

7. Candidates for the degree must work under the direction and to the satisfaction of the department in which the thesis falls and of the committee on graduate study. Before the degree is conferred candidates must pass a final oral examination on the subject of the thesis, to be conducted by the faculty or a committee thereof.

THE DEGREES OF MASTER OF ARTS AND DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN EDUCATION

In Coöperation with Teachers College,
Columbia University

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MASTER'S DEGREE

Students primarily registered in the Seminary as candidates for the degree of bachelor of theology, who wish to secure the master's degree in education from Teachers College, Columbia University, may count toward the latter degree fourteen points of Seminary work, and these fourteen points may also be applied to the fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of bachelor of theology, but they must take in addition sixteen points in education. All of these thirty points must be selected with the approval of the director of the School of Education and of the proper advisors in the two institutions, and the candidates must conform to the regulations for the master's degree as given in the Announcements of the School of Education, Teachers College. The additional sixteen points required for the master's degree in education, must be paid for by the candidate at the rate of ten dollars per point, over and above the regular Seminary tuition fee. None of the points taken in affiliated institutions in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the bachelor's degree in theology, may be counted toward the sixteen points in education already mentioned. Thus the requirements for the bachelor's degree in theology and the master's degree in education, will amount to 128 points if both degrees are sought. In addition, each candidate for the master's degree in education must prepare a master's essay, or present its equivalent. If two points are offered in lieu of this essay, they must be in addition to the 128 points, and be paid for at the regular university rate. If a student at the Seminary should register for the master's degree after the beginning of his course at the Seminary, only those courses taken in the Seminary after such registration can be applied to the master's degree.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE DOCTOR'S DEGREE

Students of the Seminary may specialize in religious education, looking toward the degree of doctor of philosophy from Columbia University. This is made possible by an arrangement, entered into in May, 1924, with the department of Educational Research of Teachers College, Columbia University, and under the jurisdiction of the faculty of philosophy of the University.

By this arrangement, the Seminary faculty shares directly with the faculty of Teachers College in the student's work for the doctor's degree. Seminary students majoring in religious education or related fields, are recognized as specializing in the teaching of religion, and may, therefore, include in their work for the degree, as "approved equivalents" to courses in education in Teachers College, such courses in the Seminary as are recommended by the major professor as inherently necessary to the proper preparation of the dissertation or to success in the field in which the candidate is to specialize. These courses must be approved by the committee on higher degrees. No definite requirement is made as to the proportion of courses to be taken in the Seminary or Teachers College, this depending upon the dissertation and the field of specialization. The subject of major interest and the major professor may be either from the Seminary or Teachers College, and members of the faculty of the Seminary will share with members of the faculty of the department of educational research of Teachers College in a joint advisory system for the approval of students' programs for the doctor's degree, in matriculation examinations, in the committee for the guidance of the dissertation, and in the oral examination, and the final approval of the dissertation as appointed and approved by the dean of the faculty of philosophy.

Seminary students who wish to take the Ph.D. degree must also make special University registration through the Seminary for the same. Candidates for the doctor's degree, other than graduate students, taking not less than 24 points in any one year in the Seminary itself, and graduate students taking not less than 20 points in the Seminary itself, will be enrolled in the Seminary catalogue as regular students, and will be eligible for rooms in the Seminary dormitory. If they have completed three years of theological study, this number may be reduced at the discretion of the committee on graduate study. Of the three years of academic study and work upon the dissertation, usually necessary to complete the requirements for the degree of Ph.D., a minimum of thirty points (one year's work) must be in studies for which special University registration through the Seminary has been made, whether these studies are taken in the Seminary or in the University, and for which the regular University fee of ten dollars per point has been paid. In all cases the University registration fee of six dollars must be paid each semester of University registration.

Further particulars touching the degree may be had from the department of Religious Education and Psychology at the Seminary or from the director of the School of Education, Columbia University.

THE DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN THE PHILOSOPHY AND HISTORY OF RELIGION

In Coöperation with the Department of Philosophy,
Columbia University

Beginning in September, 1923, the department of philosophy in Columbia University enlarged its offerings by including the philosophy of religion and the history of religion as fields of special study leading to the degree of Ph.D. Advantages for study in these fields are offered by the University in coöperation with the Seminary. Candidates for the degree may choose as their field of research the philosophy of religion, or the history and literature of any one of the great religions, including Christianity.

Students registered in the Seminary who wish to take the Ph.D. degree must also register in the University, and will be matriculated for the degree if recommended by the department of philosophy to the Dean of the Graduate Faculties.

Candidates for the degree must do two years of graduate work, at least one of them after registration at Columbia University, and must complete courses amounting to 30 curriculum points.¹ These courses must be chosen from those printed in the announcements of the University, which include Seminary courses offered by the departments of Old Testament, New Testament, Church History, History of Religions, and Philosophy of Religion. No regulations for the election of specific courses are laid down by the department of philosophy for candidates for the doctorate. The demands are expressed solely in quality of work and in academic residence.

The candidate must prepare a dissertation approved by the department, and embodying the results of his researches. Before intensive work upon the dissertation is undertaken, the candidate must be certified by the department as prepared for such research. The certification of the department will be given after the candidate has successfully passed two written examinations which shall be four hours each in length and will be given in room 701 Philosophy Hall on the second Wednesday and Thursday in January and May, and on the fifth Wednesday and Thursday of the Summer Session. The first of these examinations will be a general examination on the history of philosophy and presupposes, in addition to a knowledge of the chief philosophical writers and works, an appreciation of historical method and a knowledge of the most important contributions in the fields of metaphysics, logic and ethics. The second of these examinations will be set with reference to the special study in which the student is engaged within the field of the philosophy or history of religion. Candidates must in addition pass a two-hour oral examination which will be conducted by a committee appointed by the department. The oral examination will be set for such time after the written examinations have been passed as shall suit the convenience of the department. The oral examination will cover such subject or subjects as the committee shall decide essential to the mastery of the field of special interest and research chosen by the candidate.

Before certification by the department, the candidate must pass an oral examination in the reading of French and German.

When the dissertation is completed a second oral examination of the candidate will be conducted on his dissertation by a committee appointed by the dean of the Graduate Faculties. The dissertation must be printed before the degree is conferred.

Seminary students may become candidates for the Ph.D. degree at any time. The same courses may not be counted both for the Ph.D. and for a Seminary degree. Candidates for the Ph.D. degree taking not less than 24 points in any one year in the Seminary itself will be enrolled in the Seminary catalogue as regular students, and will be entitled to rooms in the Seminary dormitory. If they have completed three years of theological study, this number may be reduced at the discretion of the committee on graduate study. The 30 curriculum points required for the Ph.D. degree must be paid for at the rate of ten dollars a point, whether taken in the University or in the Seminary. In all cases the university registration fee of $6 must be paid each semester. Further particulars touching the degree may be had either from the secretary of Columbia University or the registrar of the Seminary.

STUDENTS NOT CANDIDATES FOR A DEGREE

Graduates of colleges of recognized standing not candidates for a degree may be admitted to take such courses as they wish.

Students electing not less than 24 points in the Seminary itself in any one academic year, and paying the regular tuition fee of $150 will be enrolled as regular students even though not candidates for a degree, and will be entitled to rooms in the dormitory.

GRADUATE STUDENTS

Graduates of this and of other approved theological schools may be received as graduate students. They may become candidates for any of the degrees described above, and may receive them upon completing the specified requirements, or they may elect such courses as they choose. Whether candidates for a degree or not they must complete the courses elected, and if they wish to room in the dormitory they must elect and complete not less than 24 points in each academic year and pay the regular tuition fee of $150.

SPECIAL STUDENTS

Students (other than graduate students) electing less than 24 points in the Seminary itself in any one year will be enrolled as special students, will be charged a fee of $10 a curriculum point, and will not be entitled to rooms in the dormitory.

Special students as well as regular students must be graduates of colleges of recognized standing. They may receive the bachelor's degree in theology upon completing the requirements for graduation.

Students are required to indicate to the Registrar during the first week of each semester, the courses of study (including also the courses in affiliated institutions) which they desire to pursue during the semester. The privilege of late registration may be granted upon the payment of a fee of $5.

Odd numbers indicate the first, even numbers the second semester of the academic year. Courses designated 1-2, 11-12, etc., continue throughout the year. Courses numbered from 91 to 99 are seminars and those marked 101 or over are primarily intended for graduates.
